

President Plans Report On Soviet Buildup In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources report that President Kennedy has stepped into the boiling Cuban controversy to arrange for a top-level intelligence report to the people on Soviet military strength in Cuba.

Kennedy, it is understood, has given approval for a public statement by John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency. The President's reported action seemed directed at quieting the belligerent partisan debate which has flared in Congress over a variety of reports of a massive Soviet arms buildup in Cuba.

McCone, a Republican, is expected to back up with some concrete evidence Kennedy's contention that there has been no significant increase in Soviet military power since last October's missile crisis.

The time and place of McCone's statement was not made clear except that it was expected to be soon. He may follow it up with an appearance at a closed-door session of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and some other Republicans dispute the administration's position.

Keating said in an interview he is willing to put before Kennedy some previously undisclosed information he has gathered about Soviet operations.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Keating endorsed a proposal by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, for public hearings on the question of whether Soviet missiles and bases remain in Cuba.

Ice Sinks Ferry With 200 Aboard

INCHON, South Korea (AP)—A crowded ferry struck floating ice and sank 15 miles northwest of Inchon today. National police said the ferry's passenger list carried 140 names and that an initial head count of the survivors showed four persons missing.

Earlier a U.S. Army spokesman said there were about 200 persons aboard the ferry and it was believed four were lost in the icy waters.

Police said the accident occurred about 500 yards off Mudo, a tiny islet, and that the ship stayed afloat in a calm sea for several hours. Two tugs, U.S. landing craft and two U.S. helicopters went out from Inchon for the rescue.

The survivors were reported en route to Inchon aboard a U.S. vessel.

Tension Relaxed Among Churches

NEW YORK (AP)—A new era in Christian relationships in America is foreseen in a report to the National Lutheran Council, meeting here today.

The annual report said tension between Protestants and Roman Catholics has noticeably relaxed as a result of the Second Vatican Council.

In the United States, "current dialogues between the groups over a variety of subjects and issues continue to increase in number and scope," the report said.

"The climate of such contacts, which had been thawing steadily over recent years, warmed up suddenly in 1962, opening up the way for further advances," he said.

The report was compiled by the Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empey, executive director of the Lutheran council, cooperative agency representing two major Lutheran denominations with more than 5½ million members.

Conclusions of Protestant observers at the Vatican Council, which held its first session last year, indicate that "the climate and directions which characterized these initial deliberations in Rome forecast the arrival of a new era in Christian relations," the report said.

DeGaulle Feels He Is Saving Britain From U.S. Squeeze

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle has shrugged off British accusations he is trying to emulate Hitler or Napoleon by keeping Britain out of the European Common Market.

The French leader, in fact, feels he is saving Britain from being used as a stooge by the United States to give the Americans more of an economic hold on Europe.

Members of the National Assembly came away from a reception Tuesday at the Elysee Palace—the French White House—with these impressions and gave an insight into De Gaulle's thinking.

The deputies reported De Gaulle said he considers that Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan double-crossed him at Nassau by Britain's agreeing to accept President Kennedy's offer of Polaris missiles.

Macmillan met with De Gaulle just before leaving for the Bahamas conference with President Kennedy last December.

Lord Samuel, 92, British Statesman, Dies In London

LONDON (AP)—Lord Samuel, a powerful voice in British politics for half a century and the elder statesman of the resurgent Liberal party, is dead at 92. He had been ill since before Christmas.

Herbert Louis Samuel's death Tuesday left Sir Winston Churchill the only survivor of the 1906 Liberal government which laid the foundation for the modern welfare state.

Lord Samuel, son of a wealthy Jewish banker from Liverpool, was raised to the peerage as a viscount in 1937 after losing his House of Commons seat in 1935.

As leader of the House of Lords from 1944-55, he opposed commercial television and abolition of capital punishment and urged an international ban on the use of nuclear bombs.

Phantom Sniper Caught; Admits He Killed His Mother

BLOOMFIELD TOWNSHIP (AP)—The people of this fashionable suburb north of Detroit breathed easier today. The phantom sniper who had terrorized the community since Jan. 15 had been caught.

But there was a feeling of shock. The sniper was revealed as a brilliant high school sophomore who admitted deliberately killing his mother.

Douglas Godfrey, 15, tearfully admitted to authorities Tuesday that on Jan. 25 he shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Mary Godfrey, 38, because she was strict and kept "bawling me out."

"She tried to make excuses to keep me home," he said in statements read at a prosecutor's news conference.

The killing of Mrs. Godfrey set the community on edge. People kept window shades down and lights dimmed. Police patrolled the streets.

The prosecutor said young Godfrey, who has a 140 IQ at Bloomfield Hills High, admitted the killing under threat of a lie detector test. He said the youth plotted his mother's death two weeks in advance and shot at lighted windows to give the impression a phantom sniper was at large.

The prosecutor gave this account of the incidents that led up to the slaying of Mrs. Godfrey: The youth was angered because his parents had reported him to police as a run-away. He had left home for three days in December after quarreling with his younger brothers and stole a .22 caliber pistol from a sporting goods store.

He set out to become a sniper, although at first he had no thought of killing his mother. He also resented disciplining by his father, Donald H. Godfrey, 44, a prosperous precision instrument manufacturer and lay preacher in the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Godfrey was killed instantly by a bullet that went through two thicknesses of glass and a drape and struck her in the head. She was making coffee in the kitchen.

Young Godfrey told police he lay in wait in the basement of their $35,000 ranch-type house until he heard his mother's footsteps above him. The father was watching television in the master bedroom. The younger brothers, Joel, 13, and Bruce, 12, were on the main floor. A sister, Deborah, 16, was out on a date. An older brother, Donald, 18, was away at Alma College.

Douglas Godfrey sneaked up side stairs and out a side door and onto the front porch. He saw his mother's shadow through the kitchen window drapes. He fired from about two feet away from the window. The bullet struck Mrs. Godfrey in the left eye and lodged in the brain.

The youth ran back inside, through the side door, and down the back stairs to the basement. Later, Donald Godfrey, puzzled

Rep. Peter Freylinghuysen Jr., R-N.J., the ranking Republican on the committee, said he will demand the presence of a quorum—15 of the 29 members—before the hearings proceed. A quorum has not been present either of the first two days.

Acting Chairman Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., said he will let the full committee decide what action to take starting today.

That could mean an abrupt halt to consideration of the administration program in one big bill. Most members would prefer study by several subcommittees.

Sweeping Tax Repeal Proposed In Lansing

No Freeway For Peninsula, Mackie Says

LANSING (AP)—Michigan is not considering an interstate freeway across the Upper Peninsula at this time, Highway Commissioner John Mackie reports.

Wisconsin is asking the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads for additional interstate mileage to build a freeway from Milwaukee to Green Bay to the Hurley, Wis.-Ironwood, Mich., area and then on to Duluth, Minn.

Chairman Harvey Grasse of the Wisconsin Highway Commission wrote Mackie asking if Michigan would consider asking for additional interstate mileage to build a freeway from Sault Ste. Marie toward Ironwood. Such a freeway, he said, could link with the Wisconsin project.

Mackie replied that at the present time there is greater need for additions to the interstate system in other sections of the state.

Michigan eventually hopes to build an interstate route between Sault Ste. Marie and Ironwood, he said. When and if the interstate system is expanded, he said, the route across the Upper Peninsula would be a "very legitimate addition" to the interstate system.

But Mackie said he doesn't want to reveal even to Kennedy the sources of information the administration has often challenged in the past but which proved to be basically right.

Keating clarified one issue of conflict with the Pentagon. He conceded he was not talking about hard bases for intermediate range missiles when he said last week he had evidence offensive bases were being maintained by the Soviets.

As far as he knows, Keating said these concrete bases have been broken up. He said he was

Prospects Fading For President's Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The prospects for President Kennedy's omnibus education bill, never bright, were fading fast today as feuding disrupted the House Education and Labor Committee.

Republicans opposing the $5.3 billion, 24-point measure hope to force a halt in the hearings, which Chairman Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., launched Monday. He then left for two weeks in Puerto Rico.

Powell had scheduled 10 days of hearings running through next week.

Senator Offers Data About Cuba To White House

By JACK BELL and FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., offered today to give President Kennedy previously undisclosed information he has gathered about Soviet military activities in Cuba.

The New York senator, who has been involved in several disputes with the administration over his charges that the government had not told all of the facts about Cuba, made the offer in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

Keating said he would be willing to tell the President about reports he has received but on which he has made no public statements because he could not confirm their authenticity to his own satisfaction.

But Keating said he doesn't want to reveal even to Kennedy the sources of information the administration has often challenged in the past but which proved to be basically right.

Keating clarified one issue of conflict with the Pentagon. He conceded he was not talking about hard bases for intermediate range missiles when he said last week he had evidence offensive bases were being maintained by the Soviets.

As far as he knows, Keating said these concrete bases have been broken up. He said he was talking about gravel-based medium range missile sites. He conceded he has no information that launchers which could be used on the sites remain in Cuba. "I don't think they are posing any weapons or they're going to launch an invasion against the U.S.A.," he said.

Open Hearings Favored
Here are questions and answers from the interview:
Q. The matter of the Soviet build-up in Cuba appears to be rushing toward an investigative crisis in Congress. Sen. Humphrey has suggested open hearings. Would you favor such hearings and would you be willing to appear before some investigating committee?

A. I would certainly favor open hearings but I think it should be left to the discretion of the Senate committee.

Q. Would you give such a committee any information you have as well as the sources of that information if the sources were held confidential?

A. They will call as witnesses, I am told, officials in the Defense Department and the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) and the State Department and they will have all of the information I have and a good deal more. I would be glad to confer with the members of that committee any time they wanted me to but I don't think it would be in the interest of anyone to have me as a witness because what I know is comparatively little compared to what they can get from these other witnesses.

Q. Sen. Humphrey said that any senator or any House member who had information about the Cuban situation ought to give it first to the CIA and then make a speech about it. Have you done that?

A. All of the information which I have had has come from government officials or if it's come from other sources, it has been cleared by government officials before I have spoken.

Q. What kind of government officials?

A. Not the top. Lower level officials.

Q. Are you suggesting what may

Bomber Pilots Crash In Jungle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A Vietnamese air force fighter-bomber piloted by two U.S. Air Force captains crashed and exploded in jungle-covered mountains today while on a strike mission.

There was no immediate indication whether either of the two Americans or the Vietnamese observer with them survived.

It was the second crash of an American-piloted B26 fighter bomber in four days. Sunday, a B26 crashed or was shot down on a strafing mission 110 miles southwest of here, killing both American pilots and the Vietnamese observer.

Today's crash, about 260 miles northeast of here, occurred while the B26 reportedly was strafing a suspected Viet Cong target. It was not known whether the plane had been hit by ground fire.

All B26 fighters in Viet Nam carry Vietnamese air force markings but are flown by American pilots.

Heavy Communist activity has been registered in various parts of Viet Nam in the past few days.

Wiring Problem Delays Orbit Of Astronaut Cooper

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A wiring problem has forced an indefinite delay in the space flight of astronaut LeRoy Gordon Cooper Jr.

Officials of the manned Spacecraft Center said Tuesday the postponement was caused by wiring problems in the control system of the Atlas booster.

Cooper, 35, an Air Force major, is slated to make the longest orbital flight by an American, a mission that could last up to 34 hours. Originally the flight was scheduled for early April.

New High School Has Community Center Facilities

A building that will be an effective educational facility and also serve the public as a center for large meetings and conferences was toured by the Rotary Club after its luncheon Tuesday noon.

The building (really a group of connected buildings) is the new Escanaba Area Public High School, whose front sections may be opened to students about mid-February. The new school is located on a 60-acre site on S. 23rd St. and will cost approximately $3,400,000.

and John Bartel, head custodian, conducted two groups of Rotarians about the building, directed attention to the use for which the rooms are designed and answered questions.

Serve Community

Supt. Bright explained that the move of students in grades 10, 11 and 12 from the old Senior High building will be made as soon as possible. The front sections of the new building will have classrooms that will double for study halls and music rooms until those facilities in the rear sections are completed within a few weeks.

The use of ceramic tile at heavy traffic points in hallways and floors of terrazzo in the corridors will reduce the cost of maintenance for the life of the building, the school superintendent pointed out. Other quality materials have also been selected for the same reason, since the life expectancy of the new school, based upon the length of service of the "old" building, will exceed 50 years.

The cafeteria area will also serve as a "student commons" and as a lobby off which open the entrances to the gymnasium on the south side and the auditorium to the north.

"The cafeteria has a student dining capacity of about 400 which could be expanded to about 600 for community dinners," said Supt. Bright.

Lay Gym Floor

For large conferences or public gatherings the cafeteria area, plus adjacent gym and auditorium, provide a facility not found elsewhere in the community. The auditorium will seat 500 and the gym 2,000.

Laying of the floor in the gym is now starting and there has been hope expressed that the gym will be ready for Escanaba Area Public High School's last home game of the season Feb. 26 when Escanaba plays Stephenson here—but Supt. Bright said that it was doubtful if the floor would be ready.

Robert Haack, Rotarian and chairman of the Escanaba Area Citizens Council for the Public Schools, introduced Bright, who briefed the Rotarians before the tour of the building.

Beginning with the school year next fall the new building will house a four-grade high school (the ninth grade will be brought from the Junior High) and the enrollment will total about 1,100.

Carnival Opens Today At Tech

Today marks the opening of the 36th Annual Winter Carnival at Houghton Tech, the beginning of days filled with numerous activities such as a snow statue and carnival queen competitions, snowshoe, skiing and dogsled races, a skit, the Tech hockey series, the Sno-Ball and the beard contest.

Winter carnival at Michigan Tech is sponsored by Blue Key, a national honorary service fraternity. The tradition is 42 years old, although this year will mark only the 36th annual carnival. It was suspended for four years during the depression, from 1930 to 1933, and for another two years during World War II, in 1944 and 1945.

Tech's first winter carnival was held, although not under that name, in 1922 when the student organization staged a one night show billed as an "Ice Carnival." The show was held in the old Amphidrome and was done with a circus format.

Costumed students served as animals and the program included student acts and speed and figure skating contests. The 1922 show was a primitive effort compared with today's carnival, but its reception was enthusiastic enough to warrant making it an annual event.

As the years progressed, the carnival program gained some gradual refinements and to some extent, standardization. Blue Key first assumed sponsorship of the affair after the 1930-33 lapse, and the 1934 carnival, established a format that is still more or less the basis for today's carnivals.

In 1936 the carnival brought the beginning of what has become one of the grandest traditions of a Tech winter carnival—the building of snow statues. Not only did student organizations compete against each other, but the Houghton Rotary Club offered a prize for the best statue build by local school children.

With the completion of the ski tow on Mount Ripley, across Portage Lake from the Tech campus, ski meets became a part of winter carnival. The first, the Michigan state amateur championship meet, was held in 1940, just after the tow was completed. Today, meets are scheduled each year during carnival week.

The resumption of the carnival in 1946 brought the addition of humorous organizational skits, staged in the old Kerredge Theater in Hancock. The Kerredge has since burned, but the skits remain as one of the most popular parts of the carnival program. They are currently staged on the first two nights of carnival, usually in the Hancock High School auditorium.

Events received from time to time are concerts by the Michigan Tech Glee Club and a night flare pageant on Mount Ripley. The flare pageant is usually performed by members of the Michigan Tech Ski Club, who ski down Mount Ripley tracing intricate patterns with brightly lit torches.

Optimism Built Up By U.S. Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Neither snow nor sleet nor tax squabbles nor French President Charles de Gaulle can stay the quiet optimism most businessmen are building up. Cautious about going to extremes, maybe, they are still pretty sure of a good showing in the next four or five months.

Bad weather which hurt business in many sections couldn't keep total sales for the nation from rising. And bad weather will pass.

Two of the basic industries with the greatest psychological effect—steel and autos—are showing reassuring strength and uttering predictions of further advances in the spring.

Already steel has recovered some of the ground lost in the January blizzards. Output is rising again. Executives count on a gain in orders just ahead.

A trade magazine, Iron Age, says steel users should add 500,000 tons to their inventories before March 31. Part would be for expected use as spring enlivens consumer markets. But most would be as a hedge against the chance of a strike this summer, possible if the union reopens the wage contract and a settlement isn't reached.

This buildup in stocks would be stepped up quickly, if the threat of strike should grow. Right now it's discounted by many in and out of the steel industry.

Auto sales held at or near a record for January in spite of the weather. This inspires the always optimistic Detroit to foresee good sales when returning warm weather kindles the lure of the road in consumer hearts.

Market Recovering

Consumers are far from in a retrenching mood. Total installment debt outstanding increased again in December after its big spurt in November. Outstanding auto paper at the end of 1962 reached $19.3 billion, up $2.2 billion from the previous year.

The stock market cocked an eye at Congress, but also watched the European fracas stirred up by De Gaulle. Prices reacted to changes in the daily news quota. But already the market had recovered almost three-quarters of the price loss suffered between the peak of December 1961 and the low of June 1962.

The immediate future still looks bright to most observers, even those with doubts about what farther off months may bring.

Chief Welsh Is Peninsula Envoy

"Hou mita kola pi, le an petu kin el, le nicipi waun kin un lila Icanté ma waste yelo."

If that doesn't look American to you, you're wrong. It's very early American, as spoken by a Sioux Indian, and is the wording of the greeting spoken by Chief Herbert Welsh of L'Anse in welcoming visitors to the recent Michigan Sports, Boat and Vacation Show in Detroit. He introduced the daily program offered at the show with that greeting.

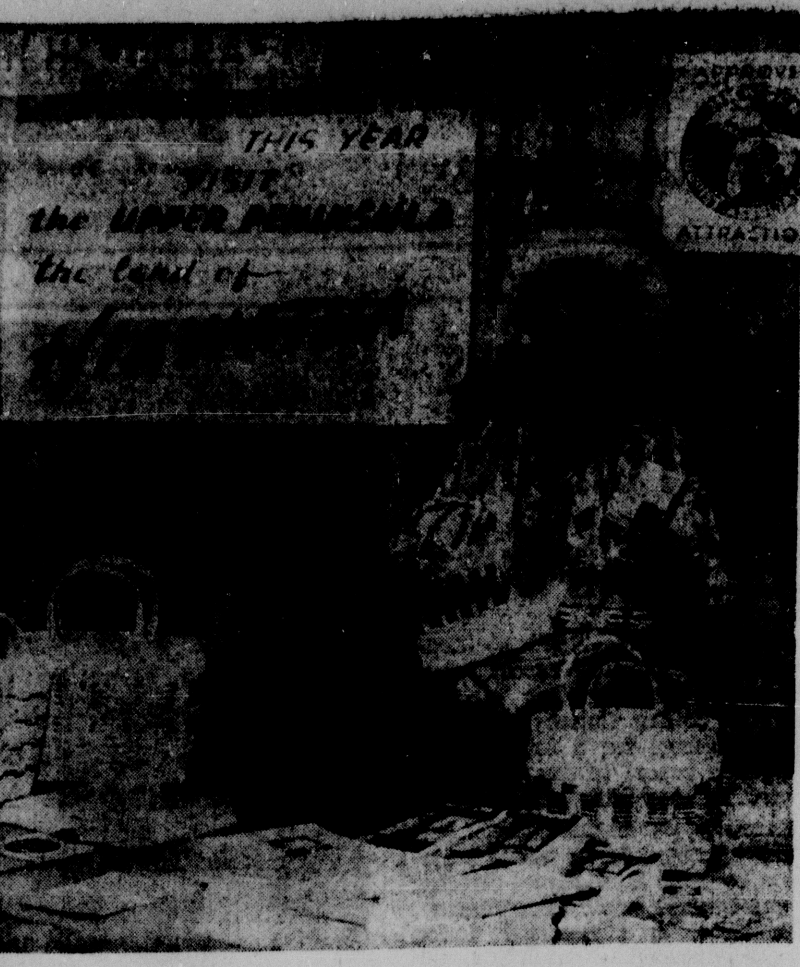

When his audience looked puzzled, the chief—colorfully dressed in what he calls his "American clothes"—would translate from the Sioux dialect as follows:

"Greetings, my friends; my heart is very happy to be with you today."

Chief Welsh, a grandson of Sitting Bull and a familiar figure to L'Anse area travelers during the summer, wore his buckskin suit, feathered headdress and handmade moccasins while helping publicize the Upper Peninsula from the Upper Michigan Tourist Association exhibit at the Detroit show. He also is helping staff the UMTA booth at the Sportsmen's and Vacation Show in Chicago's International Amphitheater.

Born on Standing Rock Sioux Indian reservation in South Dakota, the chief has been a resident of the Upper Peninsula for about 25 years. His wife, an Ojibwa Indian who was the former Helen Picard, finds time from caring for their 10 children to hold down a job as head surgical nurse at Baraga County Memorial Hospital.

During the tourist season, Chief Welsh can be seen daily at his tepee at the base of the Red Rocks between L'Anse and Baraga. He has beadwork, moccasins and other homemade souvenirs for sale there.

Helping publicize the Upper Peninsula of Michigan at Midwestern travel and sportsmen's shows this year is Chief Herbert Welsh of L'Anse, shown above with some of the hand-made articles which he sells from an Indian tepee to Upper Michigan tourists during the summer.

Ticketed For Minor Mishap

Sheriff's officers ticketed Albin Krusell, 54, of Rte. 1, Escanaba, for too fast for conditions, following an accident at 2:55 p. m. Tuesday at the intersection of County Road C-31 and the Old State Road.

Officers said that Krusell, traveling north on County Road C-31, skidded through the intersection and into a swamp. He was not injured and damage to his car was minor.

Changes Needed In Blue Cross

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Drastic changes—including a voice in hospital administration — are necessary if Blue Cross is to survive in Michigan, says a panel of experts from the University of Michigan.

The hospital service's main problems are that it insures bad risks, gives open-end contracts and has no control over hospital costs, the experts said Tuesday.

Blue Cross currently is seeking a 29.3 per cent hike in rates. The panel included Lawrence A. Hill, director of the U-M Bureau of Hospital Administration; William R. Foyle, the bureau's study director; Donald J. Mc Donald, professor of insurance, and Ross J. Wilhelm, professor of business economics.

Blue Cross may have to abandon the uniform-rate community rating system "to survive the ferocity of competition," Mc Donald said. Commercial companies vary rates from group to group—depending on past experience with the groups.

As a result, low-loss groups insure with commercial firms at lower rates, leaving Blue Cross with the higher-loss groups, he said.

Blue cross, Hill added, covers and protects against all hospital services, regardless of price, while commercial firms usually have a deductible clause or set a limit on their liability.

It has no voice in or control over hospital costs, Foyle said, suggesting that all member hospitals submit budgets to Blue Cross.

The health service has been efficiently run in Michigan, they agreed. In fact, administrative costs of three to four per cent of revenue are "extraordinarily low" compared with private industry, Mc Donald added.

KILLED WITH ONE SHOT
CHATTANOOGA — Police believe a powerful crossbow was used to shoot an arrow which killed Dillmon Thrasher, 28, of Chattanooga.

A feathered wooden shaft was recovered after an autopsy showed a steel arrowhead imbedded in Thrasher's body. It is the first homicide of its kind in police department records.

There are approximately 8,600 living species of birds.

Christmas Seal Drive In Delta Exceeds Quota

Delta County residents have pushed "over the top" in the 1962 Christmas Seal campaign, it was reported today. Edward C. Graefe of Iron Mountain, a member of the board of trustees of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association said contributions from the county have reached $3,286 compared with a total of $3,198 last year.

The response of residents of the area to the 56th annual Christmas Seal appeal is in step with statewide giving that is sending the campaign to a new all-time record in excess of one million dollars, the MTRDA trustee said. "Others remain in the county who have not yet sent in their contributions and we urge them to do so without further delay."

Thus far 71 of the state's 83 counties have exceeded their 1961 campaign records, it was reported.

Capacity Crowd Lauds Mendez

Rafael Mendez, the handsome, dapper Mexican trumpet virtuoso delighted a capacity crowd Tuesday night at the William W. Oliver auditorium.

Considered one of the greatest trumpet artists of the present day, Mendez appeared as guest artist at the Escanaba Area Public Schools Mid-Winter Band Concert.

The audience was held spell-bound with a fine display of his virtuosity. His lightning-like fingerings, impeccable tone and musicianship were especially evident in Trumpeter's Lullaby, by LeRoy Anderson, which concluded the Junior High School "A" Band portion of the program.

He displayed his flawless technique in two numbers as a soloist with the Senior High Concert Band.

Mendez sincerely praised the bands directed by John Chown and David Laakso as being some of the finest he has played with on his many tours.

The Junior High "A" Band opened the program with the first suite for Military Band by Gustav Holst. To honor Mendez the band played Fandango, a number with a Spanish motif. The band, for its fine accomplishments was called back to the stage at the concert's conclusion to receive a round of applause from the receptive audience.

The Senior High opened their portion of the program with Totem Pole, a concert march, which displayed fine dynamic control. Probably the most difficult and best received number was Pageant by Vincent Persichetti. It demanded the utmost from these fine young musicians and the result was electrifying.

House Democrats Act To Abolish Nuisance Levies

troit Recorder's Court or Grand Rapids Superior Court.

A bill designed to prohibit the false advertising of bargains as a "come-on" for the selling of higher-priced merchandise was introduced in the House.

Sponsored by Rep. Edward Michalski, D-Detroit, the bill is aimed at advertising of offers which the seller has no intention of fulfilling.

It also would prevent salesmen from wilfully discouraging the purchase of any product or service so advertised, or of disparaging it after the customer has agreed to buy.

Also prohibited by the bill are such practices as refusing to demonstrate a product, demonstrating obviously defective or damaged products, falsely claiming inability to deliver or withholding reasonably prompt delivery.

Other bills filed in the House would:

—amend state law to include farm laborers under provisions of workmen's compensation (Michalski).

—amend laws governing county civil service to include deputy sheriffs (Sobieski).

—require dealers in new used cars to furnish a warranty of at least 90 days to assure that a sold vehicle meets safety code specifications, making failure to give warranty, replace faulty parts free or to sell a faulty vehicle a misdemeanor (Petri, Baird, Doorn).

—require leaders of migrant farm labor crews to register with the farm labor security commission, to protect farmers who sometimes hire such crews and then take a loss when they fail to show up (Hyso).

Sunday liquor sales would be allowed on a local option basis under the provisions of a bill filed for introduction in the Senate.

Legislators File Batch Of Bills

LANSING (AP)—A bill giving courts authority to erase criminal records of certain juvenile law-breakers who lead model lives after conviction was filed Monday for introduction in the House.

Rep. Charles Towner, D-Mt. Clemens, sponsored the proposal under which courts would be given power to expunge the entire record of a convicted person, on motion by that person.

The bill specifies such persons would be those who are convicted or plead guilty to not more than one offense, "not of a heinous nature," before their 21st birthday.

The motion could not be filed until three years from the date of the guilty plea or conviction by the judge or jury.

Other bills ready for introduction in the House:

—A proposal to appropriate $50,000 from the state's general fund to select a site, acquire land options and make site studies for a new state hospital for mentally retarded children in west central Michigan.

—A bill by Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, to create a mine safety code advisory board, require once-a-month inspection of mines by county inspectors and set penalties for violations. The three-member advisory board would be named by the commissioner of labor.

In the Senate, bills were introduced which would:

—Exempt from taxation by one-half of assessed value the homesteads of persons 65 years of age or over whose income is solely from Social Security or Old Age Assistance "if the state equalized value of the homestead is $7,500 or less," by Sen. Harry Litovich, R-Benton Harbor.

—Provide for termination of dormant oil and gas interests in land owned by persons other than owners of the surface, by Sen. Harold Hughes, R-Clare.

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has announced the appointment of two Republicans to replace Democrats, one of whose term expired Jan. 1 and the other who was never confirmed by the Senate. Named to the International Bridge Authority was Herbert Corey, a Stephenson bank president. He replaces Leonard Wilcox Jr., of Royal Oak for the balance of a four-year term expiring June 30. Wilcox's appointment to the bi-partisan body had not been confirmed by the Senate. Appointed to the Board of Registered Architects, Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors was Edwin Young of Ann Arbor, a University of Michigan professor. Young replaces Henry McGaughan of Pontiac.

Corey, president of the Bank of Stephenson, is the president of the Michigan Bankers Assn. and has been an Upper Peninsula civic leader for many years.

Stokowski Still Believes In Youth

By MILES A. SMITH
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP)—At 75, Maestro Leopold Stokowski still carries a musical banner for youth and its future hopes.

Still tremendously busy—building another orchestra, making guest appearances with the Philadelphia Orchestra and others, reading manuscript scores that pour into his studio overlooking Central Park—the man who once formed an All American Youth Orchestra manages to find time to give encouragement to young musicians.

Friday, he will be back in Philadelphia for an anniversary concert, commemorating the 50th season since he made his debut there.

But in answering an interviewer's questions about the anniversary, he soon turned the subject aside.

"I would rather talk about the future," he said. "The past is something we no longer can do anything about."

He began talking about the American Symphony, which under his leadership began giving concerts last fall.

"One-third of our players are the most talented youth from the great music schools of New York, Boston, Rochester, Philadelphia and Baltimore—young people with tremendous talent," he said.

"For the remaining two-thirds we have the great, experienced free-lance players of New York, whom I know personally from making records for years.

"The young players learn from the experienced players, and the latter gain from the enthusiasm and vitality of the young people."

In connection with this project, he continually auditions young singers, young players and young conductors. Nor are young composers neglected.

Newspaper Tieup Cost 70 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York newspaper blackout, in its 61st day, has drained an estimated $70 million from the economy since it started, a survey showed today.

The personal impact has been offset in part by $6,687,070 in strike benefits reported paid out to date by nine unions.

The cost breaks down this way, for the eight weeks for which figures are available: Loss in advertising revenue, $28,000,000; loss in circulation revenue, $12,000,000; loss in wages and fringe benefits, $24,000,000; loss to newsdealers and other sales outlets, $6,850,000, for a total of $70,850,000.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner recessed mediation meetings at City Hall at 1:30 a.m. today. The sessions started at 5 p.m. Tuesday. Another meeting was set for tonight.

The mayor declined to tell newsmen whether progress was made in efforts to settle the strike by 3,000 members of Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union which led to the shutdown of the city's nine major daily newspapers.

The ITU holds a nationwide referendum today on a special increased assessment on members to support the strike here and the printers' strike in Cleveland, where the city's two newspapers—the Plain Dealer and the Press and News—have been shut down for 69 days.

Reuther Backs Profit-Sharing

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther Monday described profit sharing as "sharing the pie that's already been baked" and warned automakers to start getting "emotionally adjusted" to it.

"If you want to call it progress sharing, that's all right with us," Reuther told the Economic Club of Detroit.

"Progress sharing" was the phrase the then American Motors Corp. President George Romney coined to describe the current labor contract under which AMC agreed to share its profits with UAW workers.

By warning automakers to start getting "emotionally adjusted" to profit sharing, Reuther in effect was serving notice the profit-sharing plan would be a major talking point when auto industry contracts are up for renewal next year.

Reuther said the UAW would not press for the 35-hour work week to replace the present 40 hours, but would insist on a "flexible full employment formula" to keep as many people working at full pay as possible.

This might mean a 35 - hour week, but it could just as well mean a 40-hour week with no overtime, Reuther said.

"Overtime that is deliberately planned is morally indefensible, as long as there are people out of work," he said.

Senator Offers Data About Cuba To White House

be known at a lower level may not be known at a higher level? And, if this is known at a higher level, are you suggesting there is some dereliction in the government in not acting on that information?

A. Well, first I don't know to what level particular information is known. I am not charging dereliction against anyone. I have every reason to think that those who have the information I have are just as good patriotic Americans as I am. I think probably the same may be true which was apparently true last October. They place a different interpretation on the information than I do. I don't charge them with any insincerity or anything else, but I think that the situation in Cuba is very serious.

Conflicts Explained

Q. There are some direct conflicts between a number of critical points in a speech you made last week and the Defense Department position, for example, on the status of the medium range and the intermediate missile sites. The Defense Department contends that those sites, those bases were dismantled and broken up in the case of the IRBM's, that the missile erectors and the oxidizers and all the equipment needed to activate the missiles had been removed and had been seen on outgoing ships—

A. I never mentioned IRBM's at any time. There are three kinds of missiles and three kinds of missile bases that should be differentiated in this connection. One is what are called the ground-to-air missile bases; one medium range bases; one intermediate range missile bases. The intermediate range missile bases have a concrete base. I was at no time talking about that, no reference to that whatever. When the Defense Department replied, they got that into the picture. Now a great many of those have been bulldozed and broken up and perhaps all of them have, as far as I know. The anti-aircraft missile sites are there and there is no dispute about that. What I was talking about was the medium range missile sites, which do not have a concrete base at all. They are gravel or hard-top in character. The hard-top and gravel has not been ripped up, has not been removed, and is in the same condition and is being kept there right today ready for use if they so desired to use it.

No Positive Evidence

Q. Is that significant really, unless there is evidence, and you may have evidence, that the missile erectors, the oxidizing equipment, the preparation buildings are also there?

A. As far as I know, the buildings and the so-called launchers are not on those sites. We don't know where they are. I don't think anyone knows.

Q. Let's get this straight. Is this a base which could be used offensively against us?

A. Yes. It could be.

Q. About how long range a missile is it?

A. Oh, people differ on that but in the neighborhood of 1,000 miles.

Q. Your sources have no reports of very important missile equipment like the erectors and the oxidizers still being in Cuba?

A. No, I have no knowledge either that they still are in Cuba or that they are not. They can easily be transported and hidden but I have no positive evidence that they are.

South Africa's most valuable exports are gold, wool and uranium, in that order.

LANSING (AP) — A spokesman for the Coordinating Committee for the New Constitution has said the group "deplored" action by the Democratic Convention in opposing the constitution. "The constitution should not be made the subject of a political party struggle," said Edward McLogan, executive secretary of the pro-constitution group. "The sole question is whether or not it is better for all the people of Michigan for all the years ahead. An objective comparison of new and old will show it is."

CASSOPOLIS (AP) — Charles Harmon, interim president of the newly-formed Conservative Federation of Michigan, has announced he will not run for the Republican nomination for the Michigan State University Board of Trustees. Harmon said he had been urged to make the run to "do political battle with the pawns of the Michigan AFL-CIO who now dominate the policy decisions" at Michigan State. Instead, Harmon said, he will accept the nomination for president of the Conservative Federation.

Brothers Rule Desert Kingdom

By The Associated Press
Dr. Edward R. Annis, president-elect of the American Medical Association, says American doctors would react more violently against government control of their profession than their Canadian counterparts did last year.

Most of the estimated 700 physicians in Saskatchewan Province went on strike July 1 for 23 days in protest against the provincial government's new compulsory medical plan.

At a Nashville, Tenn., news conference, Annis called the Saskatchewan incident "a peacetime conscription. The Miami, Fla., surgeon said that the provincial government "locked the doctors out of the practice of private medicine."

Crown Prince Faisal, prime minister of Saudi Arabia, has installed three of his brothers in key posts, apparently another move to bring the oil-rich desert kingdom firmly under his control.

The appointments, announced by Mecca radio and heard in Damascus, Syria, appeared to weaken the position of Faisal's brother, King Saud, who has been under medical treatment in Switzerland.

Prince Abdulla was named commander of the National Guard. Prince Mashal becomes governor of the Mecca region and Prince Salman got the governorship of Riyadh, Saudi Arabia's capital. King Saud's sons had held the posts.

Jean Paul Sartre's book, "Le Mur" (The Wall), is not indecent, an appeals court in Athens, Greece, has ruled. The court acquitted the book's Greek publishers and its translator on charges that they put out pornographic literature.

Defense witnesses, among them outstanding Greek authors, told the appellate court that if Sartre's book of five short stories was pornographic, then the partially nude, armless statue of Venus de Milo ought to wear a bathing suit.

Convention Dates Of GOP Feb. 15-16

LANSING (AP) — Republicans, competing for attention with the Democratic State Convention at Grand Rapids last weekend, have announced plans for their own state convention.

The Republicans also will meet at Grand Rapids, on Feb. 15-16. Then, too, the big battle is expected to be over selection of a state chairman — a successor to George Van Peursem, who has announced he will not seek reelection and is taking a post with the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

Van Peursem decided not to run when he failed to receive support from Gov. George Romney.

The two candidates announced so far are Arthur Elliott Jr. of Bloomfield Hills, who has the inside track for Romney's blessing, and Jack Gibbs of Royal Oak.

Elliott was Romney's campaign manager in the gubernatorial election, was a fellow-delegate to the constitutional convention and is now serving in the executive office as executive assistant for appointments and office management.

Gibbs was Van Peursem's executive assistant and served as state campaign coordinator.

Official congressional district caucuses and unofficial huddles will be held the night of Feb. 15.

Only announced candidate for state vice chairman is Mrs. W. Merritt Peterson of Charlotte, completing her first term in the post.

Clothes Drier Blows Up House

By The Associated Press
The Rev. Philip R. Magee reminded the congregation at New York City's Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of the long time they've been without major daily newspapers as the New York City newspaper blackout entered its ninth week. The Rev. Mr. Magee referred in his sermon to stories on religion in newspapers. He paused, then said: "Newspapers were daily documents issued in the distant past."

Former Queen Dina of Jordan flew to Amman from Cairo for the first visit with her daughter in six years. King Hussein divorced Dina, his first wife, in 1957. The child, Princess Aaciya, is 6. The king's second wife, Antoinette Gardener, an English girl reportedly used her influence to get Hussein to soften his opposition to Dina seeing her daughter.

Kitty Walters of London switched on her clothes drier in the Essex village of Marks Tey and the house blew up. She and her husband, Richard, buried beneath blazing rubble, were pulled to safety by neighbors. The blast was blamed on seeping gas.

Sportsmen And Science

The Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association adopted at its Negaunee meeting Sunday some recommendations to the Michigan Legislature on legislation affecting conservation.

Some of the recommendations were made to the association by the Conservation Department and some were generated by the member clubs of the association and fly in the face of all that the Conservation Department stands for.

The polar separation of the professional game managers whose beliefs are embodied in Conservation Department policy and the sportsmen who are members of the 13 clubs represented at the Negaunee NMSA meeting creates a problem that we seem not to be solving in the Upper Peninsula at all. Yearly the professional scientists in the Conservation Department tell the public that their money is being wasted by the payment of bounties on predatory animals and yearly the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association insists that the Legislature retain bounties.

Most hunters and fishermen don't belong to conservation clubs. Such unaffiliated sportsmen who believe that the game biologists and wildlife managers know their jobs can only hope that the legislators will not accept NMSA recommendations as those of all the sportsmen. But there is lots of reason to believe that our legislators are mightily impressed by the organized voice of the sportsmen.

The difficulty of dispensing with bounties is an evidence of this. Bounties are a pleasant little larceny that pay the sportsman for his sport. He gets the fox (it isn't worth much) and a state check for $5 too. The state's game managers point out that every year there's a crop of predators for the bounty trappers. They could be eliminated, of course, if that were desirable for wildlife (it isn't) but they aren't. They are "farmed", in effect, by the bounty system.

Why not a trial of the recommendation that bounties be eliminated and that the several hundred thousand dollars spent on them yearly be devoted to constructive works to increase wildlife?

The trappers and their friends in the conservation clubs have rationalized their position on bounties, the one buck law and other anti-conservation Department measures until they're firmly convinced that they're right. To them it makes good sense that if game-eating animals are destroyed it will leave more game for the hunters. They reject the scientists' explanation that the balance of wildlife species is a complex and delicate one, and that predation is only one factor influencing it.

The provision of wildlife in maximum abundance is a problem that increases in size as hunting pressures increase and range shrinks and deteriorates. The state employs specialists to study these problems and to obtain the experience of other states and nations in their experimentation. To reject their counsel on how to make the most of our resources wouldn't make sense in medicine, law, business, art or education, but the NMSA's action suggests that it thinks it makes good sense in conservation.

The Doctor Says:

Medical Sleuths Nab Villians

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Sherlock Holmes used a sixth sense to catch criminals. Medical sleuths must often use intuition, the most up-to-date laboratory facilities, and a slight assist from Lady Luck to track down the villain that is causing a disease.

Many thrilling stories of such exploits are known. The most recent one to come to my attention has to do with histoplasmosis. This is a lung infection that resembles tuberculosis and is caused by a yeast-like fungus.

The persons who run the greatest risk of getting this disease are those who clean out hen houses or are in other ways exposed to soil that has been contaminated by bird droppings. The disease is not spread from person to person but is acquired by inhaling the dust from such soil.

Recently a 3-year-old boy developed an enlarged spleen and liver. Since no cause could be found, surgeon opened his abdomen and snipped off a small piece of the enlarged organs. They were found to contain histoplasma.

The doctors then knew what disease they were dealing with. But, since this all happened in the middle of the winter, they knew that the child could not have been exposed to contaminated soil. Unless they could find out how the disease was transmitted they could not prevent recurrences. Their job was, therefore, far from completed.

Specialists in fungus diseases, attached to the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, were asked to help. Even though snow covered the ground, they did not want to miss any bets. They took soil samples from the yard of the child's home and indoors from the potted plants. No histoplasma were found. Because the child had had to have blood transfusions in his first days of life, the blood of all the donors was examined but still no fungus was found. The other members of the child's family also were examined and they too were given a clean bill of health.

The investigators thoroughly examined the dust in the filter from the air-conditioner, although the apparatus had not been used in months.

The mother was questioned not once but many times about the possibility of any contact with birds no matter how fleeting. She knew of none. Then she remembered that one of the pillows the baby had used was stuffed with feathers. Like bloodhounds picking up a fresh scent, the investigators pounced on the pillow. The feathers were tested, and there was the villain!

With appropriate treatment, the infant was already well on the way to recovery. The pillow, which had been brought to this country from Hungary 30 years before, was well on its way to the incinerator. There remained just one more mystery: Why hadn't any of the other children who had used this pillow in the 30-year period got histoplasmosis? That mystery may never be solved.

Six Airmen Fight 7.5 Million Suit In Jet Plane Fire

DETROIT (AP) — Six U.S. Air Force enlisted men are fighting in the civil courts an Air Force procedure against them in connection with a $7.5 million fire that destroyed a supersonic jet fighter plane. Constitutional rights have been made an issue.

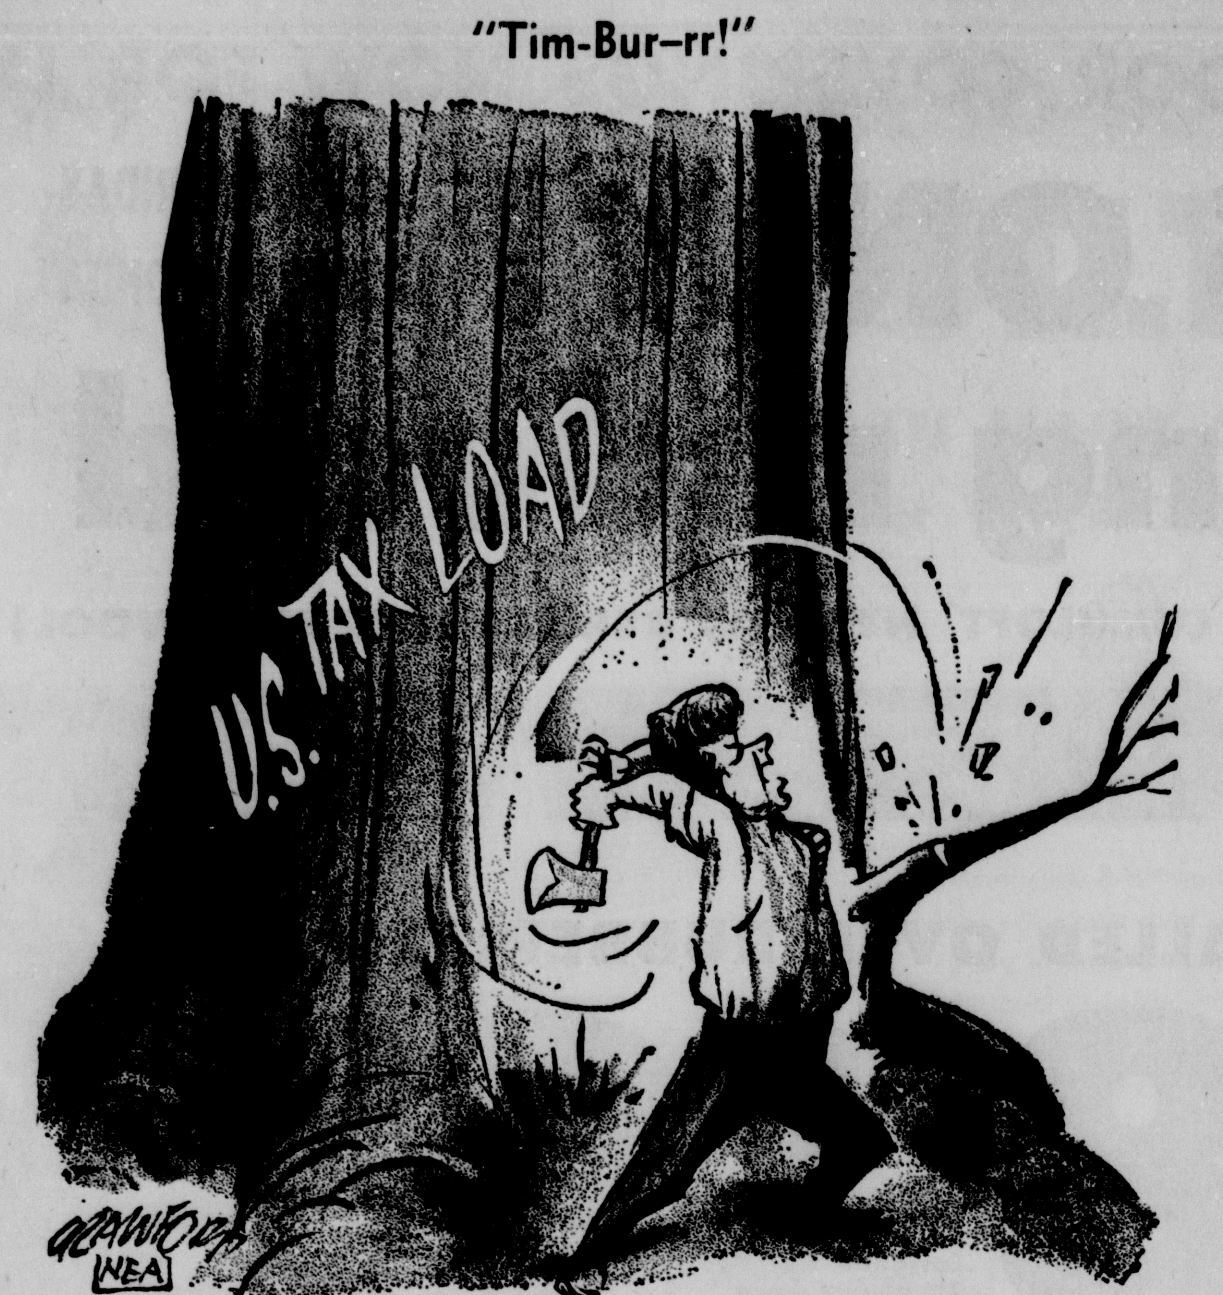

The six, all airmen at Selfridge Air Force Base at nearby Mount Clemens, won a round in the case Monday.

U.S. District Judge Thaddeus M. Machowicz granted them a temporary restraining order placing limitations upon a base board of inquiry.

A hearing was scheduled for next Monday on whether the order is to be made permanent.

The case, believed unprecedented here, involves a fire at the base Jan. 9 from which the six airmen say they may face charges of dereliction of duty.

The enlisted men said they were accused of being responsible for a fire which destroyed an F-106 airplane, a hangar and other equipment.

Edson In Washington Drugs Sent Cuba Will Be Traced

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (N E A) — Many Americans couldn't care less about the hassle between French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan over Britain's admission to the Common Market.

But there's one angle of this that every American has an interest in. It's how much American fried chicken the Common Market countries will eat and what the price will be.

Export of American poultry meats to the six EEC—European Economic Community—or Common Market countries has dropped nearly 50 per cent in the last year.

It was over 29 million pounds a month at the end of 1961, only 15 million pounds a month at the end of 1962—and headed downward.

A principal reason for the drop was a 25 cent price increase. This was caused entirely by new Common Market trade restrictions in the form of import fees.

Before the Common Market laid down its agricultural policy last August, American poultry—broilers, fowl, frozen and canned meats—could be landed in Europe at 31.4 cents a pound on the average. The Germans levied a 4.5 cents a pound tariff on that to protect domestic poultry raisers, but the 35.9 cent price was competitive with European wholesale prices.

Under the Common Market, the 4.5 cents duty has been dropped, but four additional import fees have been added.

These extras add up to 13.8 cents a pound. The price of American poultry delivered in Europe thus goes to 44.7 cents a pound average. This is far higher than EEC domestic prices. U. S. poultrymen can't compete with it and their European market is fast disappearing.

The U. S. government is kicking about this, naturally. It wasn't mentioned in the official communiqué, but when German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was in Washington last fall President Kennedy complained to him about it. After a long debate in the Bundestag, German import fees were cut two cents a pound.

Whether Adenauer and De Gaulle discussed this when they signed their historic treaty of cooperation also was not mentioned in their communiqué.

Other things are involved, though chicken has become a symbol in this battle. The Common Market has thrown up restrictions on U. S. wheat and wheat flour, feed grains, rice, tobacco and vegetable oils. Cotton, soybeans, hides and skins, tallow, oil cake and meal are getting a better break.

France has restrictions against American apples, pears, prunes, citrus fruits, canned fruits and juices as well as many industrial products.

New U. S. "trade czar," former Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, has gone to Europe as Kennedy's chief negotiator under the U. S. Trade Expansion Act passed by the last Congress. One of his principal jobs will be to work for removal or lowering of all EEC trade restrictions.

This is done by filing what are known as Article 23 proceedings under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The United States already has started such proceedings against France, West Germany and Belgium. Earlier proceedings against Italy resulted in withdrawal of their fees.

The new Trade Expansion Act set a firm policy in attacking restrictions against exports of both industrial and agricultural products.

It provides that the U. S. may take "protective action" by raising similar restrictions on imports from countries that discriminate against American exports.

In the case of France, the United States might impose import fees on such things as, well—French wines, goose liver and cheese. That would create a real test on who would chicken out and be the first to cry "Uncle Sam!"

'Whiskered Gents' Over 1,000 Strong

MENOMINEE—More than 1,000 men in Menominee County have been issued certificates of membership in the "Whiskered Gents" feature of the 1962 Menominee County Centennial celebration, reports Mark Kronauer, chairman.

In accepting the certificate the member agrees to grow hair in the form of a moustache, full beard or sideburns.

March 16, when the annual St. Patrick's Day parade will be staged, has been designated as the first "dress up day" and Centennial fun night for the Whiskered Gents and Bustlees.

NEW YORK (AP)—Footnote to history: Some of the drugs sent to Fidel Castro as ransom for Cuban prisoners carry a special marking.

They were labelled this way as a means of learning whether Castro sells or barbers them abroad rather than using them in Cuba, a pharmaceutical manufacturer says.

Drugs accounted for about half of the $53 million in goods which Castro made the price for releasing 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners at Christmas time.

Makers of the drugs, surgical instruments and baby foods contributed their products to make up the ransom figure. They were convinced Cuba was in desperate need of such items, with drugs in short supply there, and health problems becoming very serious.

But some items requested by Castro made them wonder whether the Cuban government really intended to use them all in Cuba, or exchange or sell them for other products his economy—or his military establishment—needs, this informant said.

So, as a tracer, one pharmaceutical manufacturer put a special mark on the packages of drugs he supplied. The drugs were not altered in any way.

"We'll be able to tell if they show up in Russia or South America, or even eventually in the United States," said this source, who asked not to be identified.

Drugs are a big seller in black markets, he explained.

Crackdown Asked On Coffee Breaks In State Offices

LANSING (AP) — The Civil Service Commission will ask for a crackdown by agency heads on state workers who stretch out their coffee breaks beyond reason.

The commission has been making a quiet check recently on the length of the coffee breaks enjoyed by workers in the two major state office buildings at Lansing.

The Mason Building, with some 1,800 state employees, and the Cass Building, with about 1,100 employees, both have basement cafeterias.

The commission has no formal rule on coffee breaks but permits state agencies to allow them at their own discretion. Most agencies allow two a day of from 10 to 15 minutes each.

"Our study showed that 95 per cent of the employees use the coffee break properly, but that the remaining five per cent are guilty of repeated misuse," said Civil Service Director Franklin Dewald. "It seems the people who misuse the privilege the most are also the repeaters."

Dewald said he has not yet drawn up specific recommendations to agency heads but will ask supervisors to watch the coffee breaks more closely and to "discipline the few guilty of abuse."

CHILD'S GARDEN OF BOOKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Parents should collect a personal library for their children, suggests Miss Lillian Skeele, head of the children's division of the Columbus Public Library.

"Reading is a skill like music," she says. "Unless you practice it, you don't accomplish much." Starting with nursery rhymes which you can read to the 1 or 2-year-old, every home should have a few well-chosen books."

GLADSTONE

Ice Fishing In February Slump

Sport fishing is at a low ebb in the Gladstone area, reports the Conservation Department, both in the matter of participation by anglers and the fishes, participation in the sport.

Some perch are being taken on grubs and wigglers, these being the preferred bait over minnows. Best fishing hours are still early morning and late afternoon off the tanks at Kipling.

A few northern pike are being speared in Little Bay de Noc, off the old Buckeye Veneer Mill, at north Gladstone and a few wall-eyes are being caught in late afternoon, off Garth and north of the Gladstone Power Plant on Swedish Pimples baited with minnows.

In Marquette and Alger counties fishing has been practically at a standstill due to bad weather. Lake Independence and Bear Lake in the Big Bay area are giving up some perch on minnows. A few northern pike have been speared in 16 Mile Lake.

Discover B&E Of Rural Home

Troopers of the Gladstone Post are investigating the breaking and entering of a Masonville home, which was discovered by one of the officers Tuesday afternoon while on a routine property inspection.

The home is owned by Eric Ohman of Masonville, who is presently in Chicago. He has been contacted, but it is still unknown whether or not anything was taken from the house.

Entry was made by breaking a glass in the door on the southeast corner of the house, reaching inside and unlocking the door. The burglary was discovered at 4:15 p. m., Tuesday.

Ticket Youth For Three-Car Mishap

Gary Sanford, 17, of Rapid River, was ticketed by State Police for failure to yield the right-of-way, following a three-car mishap at 9:55 p. m., Tuesday on County Road I-15, about two-tenths of a mile north of U. S. 2, in Masonville Township.

According to officers, a car driven by Daniel Mischeau Jr., 16, of Rapid River, was headed south on County Road I-15 when Sanford backed from a driveway on the east side of the road and struck the side of Mischeau's car. The impact pushed Mischeau's car into a parked car on the right side of the road owned by John Wolkenhauer of 1515 7th Ave. S., Escanaba.

No one was injured in the accident.

Blood Drive Falls Short

Blood donors in the Gladstone area fell 24 pints short of their quota during the drive of the Badger Bloodmobile on Tuesday at the James T. Jones School. The city's quota was 95 pints of blood, however only 71 were collected.

Mrs. Edward Olsen, blood program chairman, said there were 45 persons who had made appointments to donate blood, but that only 35 of these kept the appointments. Of the 46 walk-ins that made up the balance of the donations there were 10 rejects.

She pointed out that during the last drive for blood, in November of 1962, Gladstone donors fell 13 pints short of their quota.

The bloodmobile will be at the First Presbyterian Church in Escanaba today and Thursday before completing its drive in the area.

Local Teachers To Maintain Same Salary Schedule

Members of the Gladstone Board of Education decided to adopt the same salary schedule for teachers of the public schools as was used last year, when they held their regular monthly meeting in the James T. Jones School Monday evening.

It was pointed out at the meeting that a review of the tentative enrollment for next year shows a possible increase of 70 students in the school system.

A report was given on the Adult Education program, which presently offers four courses, literature and physical fitness on Monday evenings, and typing and bridge on Thursdays. The program is progressing satisfactorily and an enrichment course in elementary Spanish is being offered for selected 6th graders after school on Thursdays.

Atom Power Plant At Monroe Ready To Be Fired Up

By A. F. MAHAN

MONROE (AP) — Uranium fuel — some $18 million worth and enough for two loadings—already is on hand at the Enrico Fermi atomic power plant seven miles north of Monroe.

The plant's atomic reactor will be ready to be fired up, say its builders, when the Atomic Energy Commission issues an operating license.

No one connected with the building of "Enrico Fermi" has doubts the AEC will approve a start-up, but they expect the agency will limit initial operation to only a minute fraction of the plant's ultimate capacity.

They anticipate an O. K. may come this month, despite a continuing challenge by the United Auto Workers Union that the plant—one of only five so-called fast-breeder in the world—is inherently too dangerous to be allowed to operate in the densely populated Detroit-Monroe area.

Produces More Fuel

One loading of two tons of Uranium fuel has the heat potential of 5½ million tons of coal. A fuel load will occupy a space roughly the size of a rain barrel (30½ inches by 30½ inches), but can produce as much heat as a coal-fired boiler 10 stories high.

And while it is burning—through chain reaction—its fuel load of rich Uranium 235, the "Enrico Fermi" reactor is expected to be "breeding" 1.2 times as much fuel as it consumes.

It is designed to convert a so-called blanket of trash Uranium 238—made up of atoms that won't split—into Plutonium 239, atoms of which split at an even faster rate than U235's.

That's how "Enrico Fermi" differs from all other reactors in the world, except a small one in Russia, one a quarter its size in Scotland and two "babies" with which the AEC is experimenting in Idaho.

The reactor put into operation at Big Rock Point near Charlevoix by Consumers Power Co. last October doesn't breed appreciably. At its peak, it is designed to produce only 50,000 kilowatts of electricity, compared with the 150,000 for "Enrico Fermi."

Safety Devices Built In

What would happen if the reactor's 4,000-pound fuel core started burning out of control?

Builders don't like to talk about this. They said it couldn't happen—not with all the safety devices they have built in—an estimated $10 million worth.

Power Reactor Development Co. built the reactor at a cost of more than $50 million and Atomic Power Development Associates, Inc., has spent more than $23 million in research and development work.

Detroit Edison Co., which organized a group of sister utilities to form the other companies, has spent $22.2 million in building a steam turbine, electricity-making adjunct. The AEC itself has spent $4.4 million in promoting research.

In three-years of testing there have been both successes and failures, with the plant operating with oil-fed instead of atomic-fueled boilers. Robert W. Hartwell, general manager of Power Reactor Development Co., says that the cause of every failure now has been diagnosed and cured.

"Enrico Fermi" utilizes liquid sodium—a solid metal in its natural state—to cool the reactor and make steam with the heat it takes away while coursing through the splitting atoms of the Uranium.

Ticklish Substance

Sodium itself is a ticklish substance, even when it isn't working around even more ticklish Uranium. It becomes a liquid at 208 degrees Fahrenheit and reacts violently when it comes in contact with either water or air.

Most power-generating atomic plants built to date use water as the reactor-cooling, steam-making medium. Water, however, slows down neutrons — the things that split the atoms — and thus precludes its use in a plant designed to breed more fuel than it uses.

Big Rock Point is a waterplant. The AEC says that "only by the use of breeders (such as Enrico Fermi) would we really solve the problem of adequate energy supplies for future generations."

That's what President Walker Cislis of Detroit Edison had decided in 1950 when he proposed what now is nearing reality at nearby Lagoona Beach—a plant expected to feed back enough fuel to keep itself going and at the same time produce 20 per cent more for others.

Cislis knew it would cost more, but insisted it was worth it—even if no one else had tried it—and everything had to be designed from scratch and then built and tested to make sure it would work.

Ground was broken in 1956. A few more things still remain to be done.

Diaphram Pops

Last Dec. 12 a steam generator literally blew its top at "Enrico Fermi." Water leaked out of some of the 1,200 tubes around which 750-degree sodium turns it into steam.

There was a reaction. Pressure built up. The generator (really another name for a boiler) popped a diaphram designed to pop under just such circumstances—like the plug in the top of a pressure cooker.

Vent pipes atop the generator sent the gasses generated by the sodium and water reaction into the air above Lake Erie, where they dissipated.

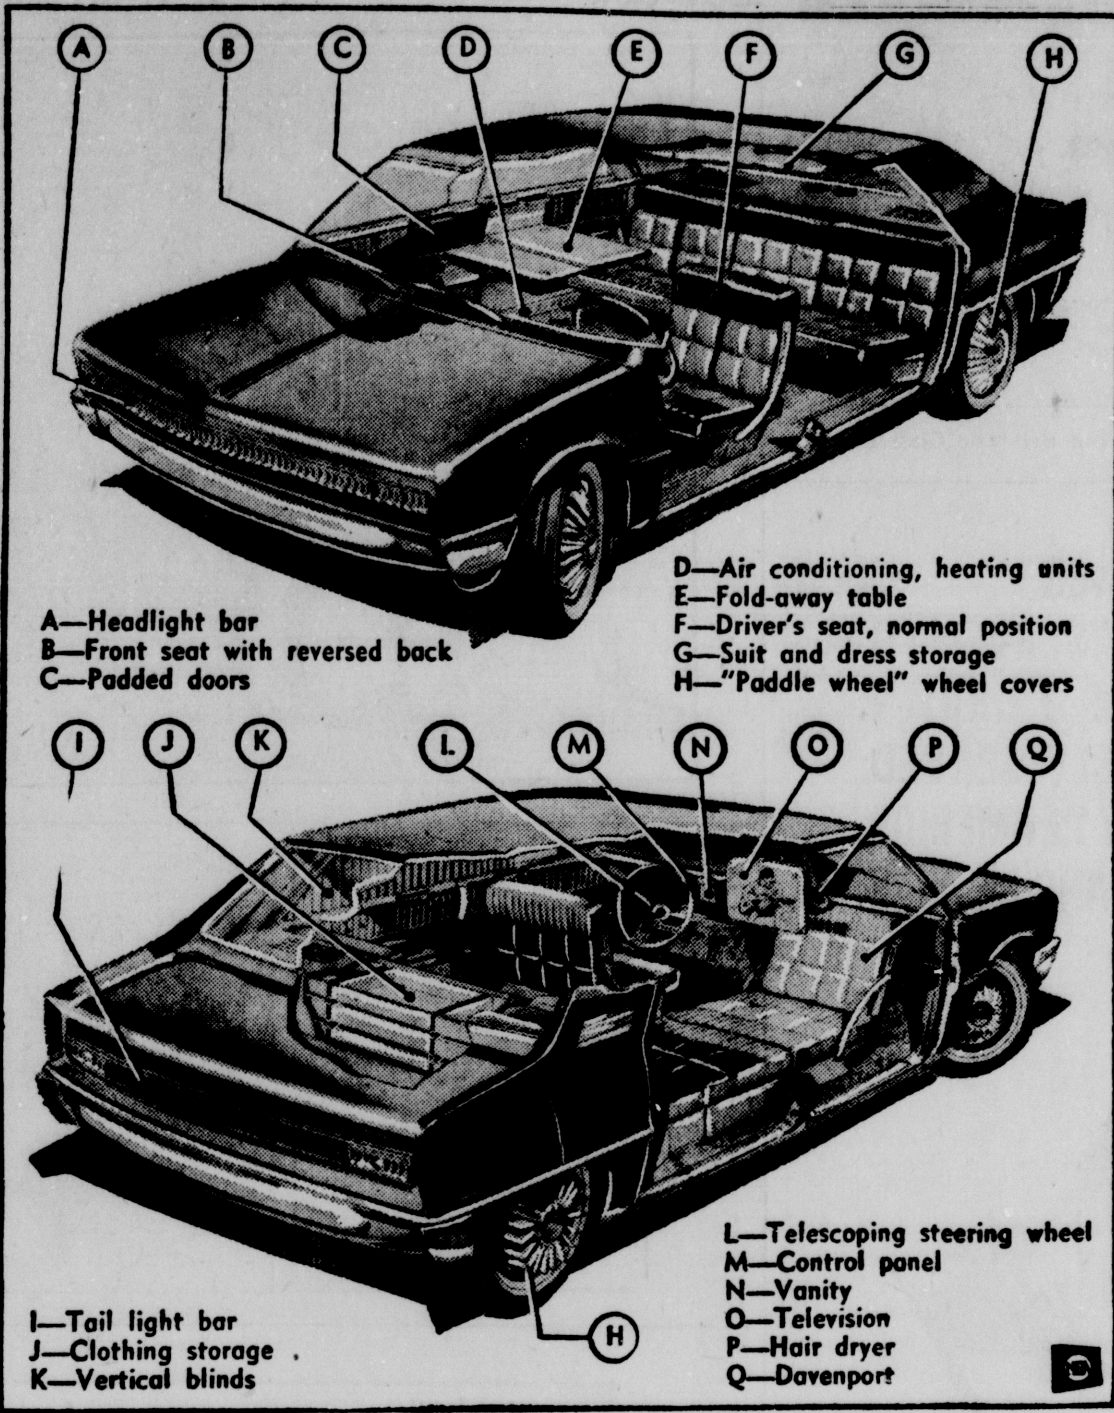

"We knew then our safety device would work—and just like we planned it to work," Hartwell said. "Inspection disclosed which tubes had leaked and tests now are underway to determine the cause."

None of the sodium and the water gas blown into the atmosphere was radioactive.

Radioactive sodium never gets out of the welded steel, air-tight reactor building, except when it is being cleaned in a solid concrete building with six-foot thick walls.

Welded Steel Building

The reactor vessel, itself stainless steel, is surrounded by graphite shields and thick concrete and

"Auto Familia," the family car of the not-too-distant future as conceived by industrial designer Brooks Stevens, is shown in cutaway drawings above. The car would be truly a living room on wheels—air conditioned, with television for back-seat riders, pull-out tables, vanity table, clothes storage compartments and sleeping couches, among other things. As envisioned by Stevens, the car would be 165 inches long and powered by fuel cells in each of its wheels, thus saving space and eliminating the dashboard with its engine gauges. The car would even be able to float on water; "paddle wheels" in the wheel covers would provide the propulsion.

SHE WAS INDISPOSED

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — One housewife managed to shatter a long-standing Louisville Water Company regulation that somebody must be home when crewmen turn on the water.

A workman who arrived at a home in the South End found this note penned to a torn newspaper:

"Water man, Please go on in. I had to go to the hospital to have my baby."

ALARMING MISTAKE

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — When fire engines answered an alarm in downtown Tucson, Arizona Daily Star staffers Ted Craig and Charles Burkhardt offered a quick explanation for the false call.

They had seen a young woman, letters in hand, reach up and pull the alarm, thinking that would allow her to deposit the letters in what she thought was a mail box.

Nine In Cabinet Were Boy Scouts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country," begins one of the world's most famous oaths.

"To help other people at all times," it concludes, "to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

That pledge—and the motto "Be Prepared"—have helped guide the lives of 36 million Boy Scouts and their leaders since the founding of the famous youth organization in this country 53 years ago.

This is National Boy Scout Week, and it is being celebrated by an active membership of around 5,250,000 scouts and their adult leaders.

Here are some items of interest about the movement:

Nine members of President Kennedy's Cabinet were Boy Scouts, and so was Kennedy. So were 21 of the 27 Rhodes Scholars named in 1962, 75 per cent of the freshman class at West Point, and every one of the new crop of U.S. astronauts selected last year.

Scouting is carried on in 141 countries, colonies and protectorates throughout the world. One out of every four American men has been associated with the program either as a scout or as a leader.

In America today there are 135,000 troops sponsored by PTA's, American Legion posts, Red Cross chapters, churches, and civic organizations. There are more than 1½ million adult volunteers, and the biggest problem of the movement is to find enough qualified men to lead the growing number of troops. The task takes time, experience dedication and an understanding of and sympathy for youth.

Nearly 15 per cent of all Boy Scouts go on to become Eagle Scouts, who must win 21 Merit Badges.

Although scouting stresses physical fitness, it doesn't overlook the handicapped. There are more than 40,000 blind scouts, and the Boy Scout Handbook is available in Braille for their benefit.

A unique group is Troop 869 of Hondo, Cal. Its 26 boys have no canoes or camping equipment.

They can't swim, camp or hike. They memorize the information they need to win Merit Badges. They learn knot-tying yet don't see the knots they tie.

The boys of Troop 869 rarely get outdoors, and when they do many people have to accompany them. Just ordinary Boy Scouts with perhaps a little more fortitude and ambition, all are hospitalized and confined to iron lungs. All have polio.

LOCO OVER LOCCO

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Ecuadorians love a soup which draws stares from visiting North Americans.

You start off with a thick potato soup. Put several leaves of fresh lettuce in it. Half an avocado goes on top of the lettuce. A hard-boiled egg nestles inside the avocado.

It's called "locco" and in this South American nation where big meals are the rule it is only a first course.

Old Westminster Abbey Scrubbed

LONDON (AP) Centuries of grime have disappeared in Westminster Abbey's first face-lifting in 900 years.

A great change has come over the interior of the Church of England edifice where Britain's kings and queens are crowned.

Stephen Dykes-Bower, architect who holds the title of surveyor of the fabric, is in charge of maintaining the abbey.

He says: "The view of the abbey on entering the west door is no longer one of somber gloom, but of lightness and radiance—a symphony of white stone, gray marble, gilding and color."

The newly cleaned ceiling of the nave is one of the most delightful surprises for a visitor.

The major portion of the abbey dates to 1245 and some sections go back to 1065. All the inside stones are the original ones.

People seeing the walls today are seeking them as they must have looked more than 700 years ago.

"We'd love to clean the outside, but we just haven't got the money," said Dykes-Bower. The inside cleaning, over a period of 12 years, is costing about a million dollars.

The interior has scaffolding and dust cloths strewn about. Already the great carved ceiling dazzles, the ribs of vaults are outlined with gold leaf, and marble piers gleam.

Scrubbing, gold-leafing and painting will go on until the 900th anniversary celebration Dec. 28, 1965.

Washing is done with soap and water. Three powerful suction machines collect dust.

Ann Landers
Forget In-Laws

Dear Ann: My letter will sound like a soap opera but every word is true.

I'm a widow, 27, with an 8-year old son. I have no relatives that I know of, having been raised in an orphanage. My husband was killed in a hunting accident three years ago. His parents who are well-to-do and socially prominent live in another city. The last time I saw them was at my husband's funeral. They have shown no interest in me or their grandchild, not even a letter to inquire how we are getting along. I'm sure they wish to ignore us because Danny is retarded.

I attend night school and work part-time as a stenographer. I'm unable to hold a regular job because of Danny. My pastor and doctor are aware of the physical strain and the financial struggle. They have suggested I put Danny in an institution. I don't want to do it. Danny needs my love and besides he's all I have.

Shall I write my father-in-law (whom I haven't seen or heard from in three years) and ask for financial help? I don't want to beg for charity but what can I do?—ELLEN

Dear Ellen: You can do as your pastor and doctor advise. I suspect you are hanging on to your child for your sake, rather than his. It may well be that Danny would be happier in an institution. Your in-laws have demonstrated they have no interest in you or your son. This is about as low as people can get and I would not demean myself by asking such heartless clods for help.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a wife and mother, married 10 years and am approaching 34. Maybe if I see this letter in print the pure disgust of it will cure me. I've been day-dreaming about a former sweetheart whom I have not seen in 11 years. The day-dreaming started about six months ago when I heard "our" song on the radio. I just sat there like a ninny and all the warm memories washed over me like a glorious wave. Now I can't seem to get the guy out of my mind.

The old boy friend was a heel. Morally he isn't fit to shine my husband's shoes and nobody knows this better than I do. How can I shake this shameful, adolescent habit?—LOOSE BOLT

Dear Bolt: The one who got away always looks better. In fact they look better "away" than they ever did when they were there.

When you feel a day-dream coming on, substitute in its place one of those heelish incidents which persuaded you to marry someone else.

Dear Ann Landers: I am making this easy for you because I know you have a lot of letters to read. Just put a check mark in either one of the boxes below. One is marked YOU PAY. The other is marked SHE PAYS.

My cleaning lady is the dumbest cluck who ever lived. She has worked for me six years, which entitles me to a medal for patience.

Yesterday she overloaded my washing machine. (She said she was trying to save soap.) The motor is now burned out and the repair bill is going to be a lulu.

Is she responsible and should I insist that she pay? Or do I pay?—Thank you. —CRAZY CATH-ERINE

Dear Catherine: If it's legal advice you want, see a lawyer. If it's my opinion you want, I am checking YOU PAY.

Everyone who employs help expects broken glassware, knick-knacks and appliances over a period of time. (And would you believe it, some women actually break things themselves.)

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Young Folks Have So Few Memories

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the things the old feel sorry for the young about is that they have so few memories.

This century has seen more change than any in history, perhaps too much for the welfare of all.

But the roller-coaster ride we've had in the last two generations certainly has left a treasure trove of recollections, both sweet and bitter. And you can hold your own in the nostalgia derby if you can remember when:

A nightcap was something a man wore to bed—not a last belt from a bottle to wind up a party.

Barrel Stave Skis

You could get in a fist fight in an argument over such heated questions as the protective tariff and the free coinage of silver.

The newspaper feature sections on Sunday carried visionary predictions that eventually man would be able to fly nonstop in an airplane from coast to coast.

The height of elegance was to be able to afford an iron stag in your front lawn.

People threw away their box tops because there was no place you could mail them with a quarter and get something back.

Only Norwegians and kids on barrel staves ever went skiing. We all felt grateful to Warren G. Harding for returning us to normalcy—whatever that was.

Rupert Hughes scandalized the literary world by writing a book pointing out that George Washington had sometimes acted like an ordinary human being.

If a man had gold in his teeth, it was a pretty safe bet he either was a banker or had a steady job with a railroad.

The ambition of many a housewife was to have her husband take her out to dinner at one of those new-fangled cafeterias.

A small boy whose mother made him carry a handkerchief to school in winter was the class sissy.

During prohibition the serious drinkers imbibed everything from bay rum to Jamaica ginger, and everybody for safety's sake was banned from the basement while father bottled his home brew.

The family doctor created a neighborhood furor when he raised his price to $5 for a home call.

Nobody felt unsafe because every boy in town carried a jackknife, usually attached to his pants belt loop by an old shoe-string.

Most city dwellers dreamed of saving enough money to retire to the country in their old age and run a chicken farm.

One of the most hated chores of childhood was emptying the clammy pan of water under the family icebox.

Remember?

Holdup Men Flee; It Wasn't A Joke

DETROIT (AP)—The holdup men looked like salesmen.

So, when the one carrying a brief case pushed a 45-caliber automatic into the stomach of supermarket manager Jere Reeves he thought it was in fun. "Go ahead and shoot," Reeves said.

The astonished gunman turned to his partner and said, "This guy is crazy. Let's get out of here." They fled. "I didn't think it was a holdup," Reeves, 29, told police. "or I wouldn't have done anything so foolish."

Members of Isabella Farm Bureau met Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Nelson. The discussion topic was the new constitution.

Mouth parts of the male mosquito are not equipped for biting, so only the female of the species bites.

Robert Todd Lincoln Beckwith, great-grandson of Abraham Lincoln, holds items of Lincolniana which he was awarded by a District of Columbia court in an ownership suit. The rifle, the first lever action rifle ever made, was presented to President Lincoln during the Civil War. The chair once belonged to the wife of Robert Todd Lincoln, the president's eldest son. Beckwith plans to donate the items to the Smithsonian Institution.

Role Given GOP In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Gerald Ford, R-Mich., is making it plain he intends for the House Republican Conference to have a leading role in shaping GOP thinking on major issues ranging from nuclear testing to civil rights.

Ford was elected chairman of the conference when Congress convened last month. He replaced the veteran Rep. Charles Hoenes of Iowa, getting strong support from younger Republican members.

Ford said the Republican conference will back the House Republican Policy Committee and seek to work out positive alternatives to administration measures Republicans oppose.

The conference, Ford said, should be a forum.

In deciding what position to take on taxes, he said, such men as Rep. John Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior GOP member of the House Ways and Means Committee and chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee, will be called before the conference to outline the tax situation in detail. Ford indicated House Republicans will not seek any general investigation of the Cuban situation even though there may be inquiries by Senate Republicans in allegations of a large armament buildup on the island.

Chief Engineer Of Chevrolet Gets Promotion In GM

DETROIT (AP)—The third man of a trio which put Chevrolet on the road to successes unprecedented in the automobile industry has been promoted into the higher ranks of General Motors Corp.

Harry F. Barr, chief engineer for Chevrolet for the past seven years, has been made vice president in charge of the entire General Motors engineering staff. The change, announced Monday, will be effective March 1 when Charles A. Chayne retires.

At the vice presidential level Barr will be joining two old Chevrolet cohorts, E. N. Cole and K. E. Staley. Cole is vice president in charge of car and truck groups. Staley is vice president distribution.

Barr became chief engineer of Chevrolet in July, 1956, when Cole stepped up to head the division. Staley took over as general sales manager. Cole was promoted out of Chevrolet 15 months ago and Staley moved up last September.

Barr and Cole worked out the problems involved in introducing the Corvair, only American rear-engine car. Barr was also in

Mother Shot Dead; Baby Delivered, Dies In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — A baby boy died Monday night about 5½ hours after doctors had delivered him from the body of his mother, shot to death 20 minutes before.

The premature 4½-pound infant was kept alive by mouth to mouth resuscitation at Casualty Hospital, but he died after being transferred to District of Columbia General Hospital.

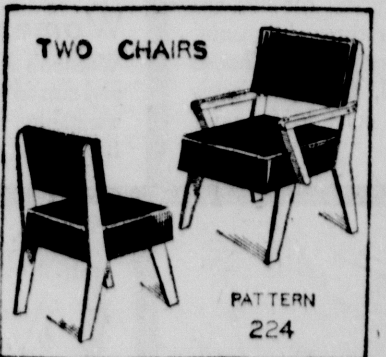

Charged with murder in the shooting of Mrs. Robert Truesdale Jr. was her estranged husband. Police said Truesdale, 24, ran into a precinct station four blocks from her home and told officers, "I shot my wife, here's the gun."

Fire department Pvt. Anthony P. Procci who accompanied the ambulance to the scene noted that Mrs. Truesdale was pregnant and detected sign of life in the unborn baby. The dead woman was rushed to the hospital where a team of surgeons headed by Dr. Henry H. Canton performed a caesarian section to deliver the infant.

Truesdale was arraigned on a first-degree murder charge. The couple had one other child.

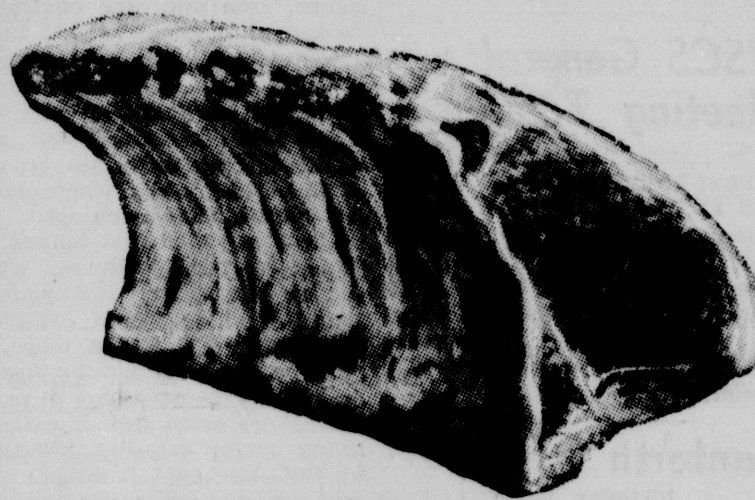

Early Teutons slept in shallow crests lined with animal skins. The word "bed" comes from their vocabulary.

Flexibility Is Best Feature Of Family Home

EAST LANSING—"If houses were designed for family living, there would be flexibility—a design that would grow as the family grew, adapting itself to new tasks and activities, functions and values step-by-step through the family life cycle."

This is what Dr. Evelyn Mills Duvall, Chicago family life consultant, told wives and husbands during a Farmers' Week meeting at Michigan State University.

Mrs. Duvall, author of "When You Marry" and "Facts of Life and Love for Teenagers," stated that housing for changing families means housing that meets specific needs during each stage of the family life cycle.

General Stages

The stages are: newly-weds; childbearing families; families with pre-school children; families with school-children; families with teenagers; families as "launching centers," when graduations, weddings, departures and homecomings take place, and families in the middle and later years, when the children have left to make their own homes.

The house of the childbearing family, she pointed out, must be "baby-proofed" to protect both the child and the possessions. Furniture, floors, equipment and walls must be durable and easy to clean.

A family in the later years, however, is free to fix up its home, move to a smaller place, or they can keep the home open for the children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Duvall also stated that houses designed for family living would not have the "sparkling, modern kitchen" so compact that only one can enter at a time.

Work Center

Instead, it would consist of a work center designed around the family in action — preparing meals, clearing the table, doing the laundry, making out shopping lists, mending clothing, ironing, baking and freezing—in pleasant, comfortable space.

Neither would there be a nursery into which "all a child's toys are thrust, and to which he is assigned," she said. She envisioned "areas throughout the house where a youngster has things he can call his own, that are appropriate for the activities and materials—for example, water play in the kitchen and bath but not in the living room where books and records may be enjoyed."

She also stated that houses designed for family living would contain areas for "family functioning." These would include a place for noise and a place for quiet; a place for getting together and for being alone; a reception center apart from the family living space; drip-dry provisions in the kitchen, bathroom and laundry, and an unloading area near the storage, especially in the kitchen.

Couchaine, Jeanne and Donna Lehouillier and also his brother, Michael and sister, Diane, Jeanne Lehouillier won the guest prize. Terry received many gifts.

Voice Of America Getting Louder

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The Voice of America is getting louder.

On Friday it dedicates with fanfare a $23-million installation whose massive transmitters are said to be 96 times as powerful as the strongest American commercial radio station.

The 400-foot steel antennas tower over a 6,000-acre site in the heart of North Carolina's tobacco-land. Tests of its power have brought reports of strong signals from such widespread points as Buenos Aires, Leopoldville and Belgrade.

Lumber Grading School Planned

HOUGHTON—A 15-week course in lumber grading has been approved for Michigan Tech under the Manpower Development Training Act of 1962.

The program, involving an expenditure of approximately $39,000 for supplies, equipment, instructional services and student allowances, is the second Michigan Employment Security Commission course approved for Tech in recent weeks. A surveying course for civil engineer aides was approved in December and classes started Jan. 21, with 24 students enrolled. Both courses are the first of their types in the nation.

The lumber grading program is scheduled to start in mid-February at Tech's Ford Forestry Center in Alberta, utilizing classroom, laboratory, dormitory and dining hall facilities there. Enrollment will be limited to 25 men, who will attend classes 40 hours per week for 15 weeks. Most students will reside at the Ford Center.

Trainees for the course will be recruited and screened by the Employment Security Commission, which will also assist in placing graduates of the course. A recent survey indicated at least 34 openings for lumber graders in the Upper Peninsula.

All trainees will be recruited from the Upper Peninsula, and for many it will provide an opportunity for job upgrading within the lumber industry.

Nuclear Blasts Change Weather

DENVER (AP)—Private weather forecaster Irving P. Krick says high altitude nuclear explosions set off by the United States and Russia may account for January's severe cold spell.

Dr. Krick said it's not as simple as saying a hydrogen bomb blast produces cold weather.

"Something such as the nuclear explosions has changed both the course and intensity of the jet stream," Krick told newsmen. "The jet stream is the high-speed current of air which moves from west to east around the globe at altitudes between 30,000 and 50,000 feet."

Krick, who operates a commercial weather service, said the radiation belt around the earth, intensified by the bomb blasts, appears to have speeded up and changed the course of the jet stream.

"Now," he said, "instead of moving across the northern portion of the globe near the poles, there is a wave of motion in the stream over the whole northern hemisphere."

"This wave motion has caused the cold penetration into the lower latitudes such as Florida, Texas, California, Bulgaria, Greece and Yugoslavia."

Krick said the high yield nuclear blasts last July caused him and his staff to modify their long-range forecasts for January "because we felt the increased radiation would be a basis for more intensified cold."

He said the increased speed of the jet stream moves the cold air south faster, and doesn't give it time to warm before it reaches the lower latitudes.

Krick, who often has disputes with the U. S. Weather Bureau, said he expects the weather pattern to become reoriented in February "and the extremes in temperature pattern will not be as great."

The Fond du Lac Golden Gloves team that will meet Upper Peninsula champions at Green Bay on Feb. 11 is dominated by fighters from Neopit. Indian scrappers won seven championships in the Saturday night finals which drew a crowd of 2,500 fans at the Fond du Lac Armory.

Split pickers: Helen Williams picked up the tough 3-7-10 split in a game in the Hiawatha Women's Bowling Assn. tournament at Rock. Sally Henderson 6-7-10, Karen Miller 3-9-10, Aggie Baribeau 5-10, Betty Gauthier 4-7-9-10, Merelyn Davidson 4-7-10, Connie Heminger 3-7-10.

Pat Muio of Canadian Soo, 50, a veteran of 30 years on the lanes scored the first 300 of his bowling career in the Ishpeming Miracle handicap tournament. His 699 series fell short of the optional singles lead, held by Jim Lawson with a 735.

The latest national honor court in U.P. bowling circles was a 704 series by Bernie Boucher of Menominee on games of 208, 238 and 258.

Marlon Batterman, former Marinette High School football coach, died this week at the age of 47 in Neenah. He had been ill with cancer for six months. Batterman was president of the Wisconsin High School Coaches Assn.

Ray Mariucci of Iron Mountain, former coach of that city's Golden Gloves boxing team, is backing the move to promote high school wrestling in the Upper Peninsula. A recent prep clinic held at Michigan Tech under the direction of wrestling coach Ken Cox drew a good response from U.P. high schools and a similar clinic will be held in Iron Mountain. Mariucci stated while in Escanaba for the U.P. Golden Gloves tourney last weekend. A former Michigan State boxer, Mariucci is a teacher at Quinnesec in the Kingsford school system.

Steve Branz, former outstanding baseball pitcher at Kingsford High School and a graduate of Western Michigan University, has been named head baseball coach at Farmington, a downstate Class A school in the Detroit suburbs. Branz was a member of the baseball squad at Western where he is now working on his master's degree.

The leading scorer in the Menominee Range Conference is Pat O'Connell of Niagara with 299 points in 15 games. Other top Range scorers are Jay Dishnow of Iron Mountain with 145 points, Gene Lepisto of Stambaugh 138. Top point producer in the Big Eight circuit is Tom Knoke of Florence with 279, followed by Ron Lepisto of Alpha 245, Ron Povo of Hermansville 226, Vince Roell of Channing and LaVerne Buzzo of Felch 225 and Ross Dixon of Felch 215.

Upper Peninsula representatives on the Michigan High School Athletic Association track rules committee are Dick McCarthy of Kingsford and Duane Rinckey of DeTour.

Menominee's Dick Schomer has a perfect record in Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament competition. The rugged little bantamweight has entered the U.P. meet three times and has captured three crowns, advancing twice to the national tournament in Chicago after adding Wisconsin titles to his list of ring laurels.

Perkins Defeated By Carney Quint; LaCosse Injured

CARNEY—Coach Bon Kuntze's Carney Wolves loped to their 12th victory in 14 starts here Tuesday night, defeating Perkins 73-43.

Coach Joe Vestich's Yellowjackets played without the services of sharpshooting Melvin LaCosse who suffered an ankle injury in practice. LaCosse, one of the top scorers in the Upper Peninsula with 349 points in 12 games, did not suit up for the game and Vestich stated he did not know if the 5-9 senior would be ready for the game against Cooks Thursday night.

Carney was in command throughout the game, racing to a 19-5 lead in the first period and spreading it to 35-17 at the half. Six Carney cagers hit in double figures, headed by Bob Mass with 14 points. The Wolves hit on 13 of 17 free throw attempts and shot 37.5 per cent from the field on 30 of 80 field goals. Perkins tallied on 13 of 28 from the line and 15 of 68 from the field.

Craig Berquist and Ken Blahnik combined to pull down 23 of Carney's 57 rebounds.

With LaCosse sidelined and Dick Demeuse lost through graduation at the end of the semester, Perkins' attack was paced by Jim Branstrom with 15 points and Len Gustafson with 12. Perkins now has an 8-5 season record.

Carney won the jayvee game 50-37.

The Escanaba Eskymos will attempt to cement their grip on first place in the Great Lakes Conference basketball race Friday night when they invade Manistique.

Coach Harold Johnson's cagers top the GLC scramble with an 8-2 record, a game and a half ahead of the pack. Gladstone, Marquette, Negaunee and Soo are jammed in second place with 6-3 marks.

Manistique is right on their heels with a 5-3 record and would become a leading contender by upsetting the Eskymos Friday night.

Escanaba enters the game with an overall record of 11 victories in 13 starts, the two setbacks coming at the hands of Marquette. Manistique is 7-4 for the season and has won six of its last eight starts.

Another game that will help clear up the traffic jam at the top of the standings is the Gladstone contest with Marquette at the Braves' gym Friday. The winner will be in a good position to challenge for the lead and Marquette could take a giant stride with a double victory as the Redmen host Stephenson Saturday night.

The Soo Blue Devils get their chance to gain ground when they travel to Newberry Friday night. The host Indians have won only once in 10 GLC outings.

Negaunee will be seeking to better its 6-3 record in the remaining conference game at Ishpeming Friday night.

Munising takes on Gwinn in a non-league game Friday and Newberry hosts Marquette Bishop Baraga in another non-conference affair Saturday.

The Eskymos have only two more GLC games remaining after Manistique. Escanaba will close its season with home stands against Negaunee Feb. 15 and Stephenson Feb. 26.

Gladstone has three conference games after Marquette, playing Manistique Feb. 15, Soo Feb. 22 and Munising March 1, all on the road.

Following the Escanaba clash, Manistique meets Gladstone Feb. 15, Stephenson Feb. 16, Munising Feb. 22 and Marquette March 1.

Eben Is Trimmed By St. Paul Again

NEGAUNEE—The Eben Eagles did it again last night, drubbed 71-37 in an earlier meeting with Negaunee St. Paul. Eben buckled 57-28 in a repeat performance at the St. Paul gym Tuesday.

Coach Bob Johnson's Eagles have a 7-4 record against other teams this season and are contenders for the Central League crown.

They were never in the ball game last night, trailing 14-4 at the end of the first quarter and 35-11 at the half. Coach Allen

Dighera's Emeralds had a 47-16 cushion with six minutes remaining in the game and reserves finished it out.

Dick Koski of Eben scored six points in those closing minutes and took individual scoring honors for the night with 14. Three St. Paul cagers reached double figures and nine contributed to the team's 10th victory in 12 starts.

Neither team shot well from the free throw line, Eben hitting 6 of 18 and St. Paul 3 of 12.

Loyola Deadeyes Use Small Basket In Gym Practice

CHICAGO (AP)—Unbeaten Loyola of Chicago, the nation's No. 2 college basketball team, still whets its shooting eye on an undersized hoop, but tough conditioning is the main key to the 20 successive Rambler victories.

Coach George Ireland told the Chicago basketball writers meeting Tuesday a few of his stars, principally leading scorer Jerry Harkness, continue practice shots at a special 15-inch rim on a court-side basket.

Until a few days before Loyola's remarkably successful season began Dec. 1, Ireland had his Ramblers constantly firing at the choked-up rims clamped over regular baskets which measure 18 inches in the inside diameter.

"Harkness still works individually on the smaller hoop to polish off his drive-across shots," said Ireland. "Ron Miller, whose accuracy keeps improving, uses the smaller target the most and the results are there to see."

Harkness has averaged .520 accuracy in compiling a 20-game average of 21.3 points.

Miller, with 12.3, is the fifth best scorer among Loyola's starting five — all shooting in double figures.

Ireland, whose Ramblers face capable Marquette in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader Tuesday, Feb. 12, appeared confident Loyola won't crack in their remaining six games.

"Our club is in good condition, and that's what counts when you try to run the other team off the court," said Ireland.

Frick Claims He Won't Retire Yet

(Second in a Series)
By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For the past few months, there have been persistent reports, some from high places in baseball, that Ford Frick plans to retire as commissioner of baseball and, for the remaining three years of his relinquished contract, go on a $25,000 annuity.
The rumors of his impending retirement have traced back to Frick himself.
"I am fully aware of the reports that have me walking out of here," Frick said, "But the truth is I have no immediate plans to retire. There is still a

Little League Retains Zone

By The Associated Press
College baseball teams and American Legion clubs will adopt organized baseball's expanded new strike zone for the 1963 season but the Little League will retain its old rule, partially for the sake of safety.
The Collegiate Baseball Newspaper reported in Tucson, Ariz., Monday that the colleges will adhere to the rules committee of the pros that changes the strike zone to between the top of the batter's shoulders and his knees when he assumes his natural position.
In Indianapolis, George W. Rulon, national director of American League baseball, said the new strike zone also will be used in legion baseball this summer.
Robert H. Stirrat, public relations director for the Little League, said in Williamsport, Pa. that Little League baseball plans to retain the present regulation, which has been in effect throughout the league's 23-year history.
The old strike zone is that area over the plate between the batter's armpits and the top of his knees.

Sports In Brief

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Colorado College took its second Western Intercollegiate Hockey Association game in as many nights from Michigan Tuesday, winning 4-2. Warren Fordyce scored two goals on a pair of rebounds within 24 seconds in the second period to give CC a 3-1 bulge.
KALAMAZOO (AP) — Western Michigan won nine of 11 events in rolling up a 66-29 victory over Bowling Green of Ohio in a swimming meet Tuesday night. The Broncos finished one-two in six events.

New York Will Keep Pro Boxing

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Professional boxing will be continued in New York State, probably with reforms.
That decision, it was learned today, has been reached by a majority of the members of a legislative committee assigned to determine whether boxing should be abolished in the state.
The decision has the backing of the Republican legislative leaders, who have the final say on what bills come before the senate and assembly. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has left the decision up to the legislature, which will accept the decision of the committee.
The Joint Legislative Committee on Professional Boxing was formed by the legislature last year after the death of Benny (Kid) Pareit in a welterweight title fight in Madison Square Garden. The death brought a renewal lot of unfinished work to be done. If and when I decide to retire, I will announce it to everybody."

Frick, who reached his 68th birthday last Oct. 19, will be nearing 71 when his term expires in September of 1965. He already has stated emphatically he will not stand for re-election.
The names most frequently mentioned for the role of the next baseball commissioner are Joe Cronin, popular president of the American League; E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, vice president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Judge Robert Cannon, legal advisor to the major league players.
A majority of the major league club owners, whose power it is to hire and fire commissioners, believe the next head man should be chosen from the ranks. Some however, feel it might be wise to name a man not officially connected with the game. They prefer a man with a political or judicial background, someone like former Vice President Richard Nixon, or a Judge Cannon, for example.
Because of the demands of the position and the increasingly complex decisions to be faced, many feel the next commissioner must have youth on his side. Of the leading candidates suggested, for the $75,000-a-year position, Cronin is 56, Judge Cannon is 45, Bavasi 47 and Nixon 49.
Frick, who was 56 when he first took office in 1951, refused to be drawn into any conversation regarding his eventual successor.

of the outcry, heard periodically in the state, that there was no room in modern civilization for a sport like boxing.
The committee concluded a series of public hearings Tuesday and is scheduled to begin work next week on the draft of the report it will make to the legislature, which is Republican controlled.
Assemblyman Hayward H. Plumadore, committee chairman, said he expected the report to be ready in two to three weeks.
None of the members wished to speak publicly on the continuance question until the committee had reached its conclusions in a formal manner.
But in off-the-record discussions it was learned that a majority feel that insufficient evidence had been presented at the hearings to warrant the drastic step of abolition.

Lary Is Vital Tiger Factor

By The Associated Press
How the Detroit Tigers face in the American League pennant race this season could hinge on the condition of pitcher Frank Lary's right shoulder.
Lary, a 23-game winner in 1961 when the Tigers finished second, was hampered by the sore arm last year. The injury limited him to 14 starts and his won-lost record was a dismal 2-6 as Detroit dropped to fourth place.
The next few weeks at Detroit's advance spring training camp site in Lakeland, Fla., could determine if Lary's career is in jeopardy.
Lary, who will be 32 in April, will report to Lakeland Monday and attempt to work his arm back into shape.
The Yankee nemesis—he boasts a 28-11 lifetime record against them—will be allowed to get into condition without the formality of signing a contract.
Gil Hodges, whose gimpy left knee also makes his availability with the New York Mets a question mark, agreed to terms Tuesday.
Hodges' sore knee will bear scrutiny at the Mets' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.
The popular Hodges, who will be 39 opening day, hit .252 in 54 games in 1962 after an illustrious National League career with the Dodgers. He said that the knee feels pretty good and he has been fastening weights to the leg.

Nicklaus Favored In Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus will be one of the big favorites in the $35,000 Open golf tournament, starting Thursday, and therein lies proof of what a great change one short year can make in a young man's life.
When the blond youngster hauled his massive 200-pound frame into the Arizona desert country for this tourney 12 months ago, he was a neophyte pro of only three months.
He had averaged $250 a week in his first five tournaments, pretty fair wages for most folks, but he had yet to collect a really large check.
He cashed his first big one—$2,300—by finishing in a four-way tie for second at Phoenix and in a few fast months was named with veterans Arnold Palmer and Gary Player as golf's "big three."

Jack the giant's official winnings last year totaled $61,868, topped only by Palmer and Gene Littler. By adding $51,064 in unofficial but very cashable checks—including $50,000 for beating Palmer and Player in the world series of golf—Nicklaus topped them all in over-all dough for play with $112,933.59.
Nicklaus also whipped Palmer in a playoff for the U.S. Open championship and just two days ago routed Player in an extra round for $9,000 top money at Palm Springs.
The Arizona Country Club's flat fairly wide open course, which plays to a par of 72 over 6,697 yards, should be made to order for the long-hitting Ohioan, just turned 23.

Faculty Favors New Aid Policy

ANN ARBOR (AP) — A large segment of the University of Michigan faculty is "particularly dissatisfied with the present system of grants in aid" to athletes in the Western Conference, a faculty subcommittee reports.
Nearly 43 per cent of the faculty members favor doing away with grants specifically for athletes, and nearly 30 per cent oppose the program unless financial need is made a condition for a grant, said Robert C. Angell, a sociology professor and head of the subcommittee.
The position on financial needs is one taken by the university when the conference deleted such a clause from conference rules, said Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler.
"I think the faculty displeasure is aimed at the question of financial need," he added.
Faculty reaction was even stronger, Angell said, against the conference policy of offering grants to students who can be expected to earn a 1.7 (C) average or better in their freshman year. They felt that standards should be higher and that the financial aid system should be more rigidly policed, he added.

Track War Flares With New Battles

By The Associated Press
The crack in the truce agreement among the rival U.S. track and field bodies seemed to be widening into a chasm today with an apparent showdown developing over sanctioning privileges.
It appeared that nothing short of another head-to-head session under arbiter Gen. Douglas MacArthur could get the warring parties back toward a settlement, thought to have been reached over the negotiation table in New York less than three weeks ago.
The signs of a forced showdown turned up Tuesday when the college-backed United States Track and Field Federation disclosed that it had offered its official sanction to the Los Angeles Times indoor meet Saturday night and said it would consider similar overtures one at a time as the season progresses.
The move came in the wake of the Big Six Conference's announcement that it would not allow its athletes to compete in the meet, already sanctioned by the AAU, unless it was sanctioned by the federation.
In Washington, Col. Don Hull, executive director of the AAU, said if federation sanction was accepted by the director of the Los Angeles meet, the AAU would be forced to withdraw its own sanction. Although any moves on actions that would jeopardize full competition are forbidden by the MacArthur agreement of Jan. 19, AAU withdrawal could lead again to widespread suspensions — ordered by the AAU against athletes who competed in three federation-sanctioned meets last fall.
Except for the Big Six, the nation's other college conferences have permitted their athletes to compete in the AAU indoor meets since the MacArthur agreement was announced. A general NCAA boycott was lifted after the agreement was reached. The Big Six, formally known as the Athletic Association of Western Universities—UCLA, Southern California, Stanford, Washington, California, and Washington State.

Russell Closing Gap On Schayes

By The Associated Press
Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics now is only 25 rebounds behind the veteran Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals in his bid to become the all-time leader in the National Basketball Association.
Russell made 29 grabs Tuesday night as the Celtics beat the Cincinnati Royals 106-96 at Cincinnati. Schayes, now only a part-time player, got six as the Nats drubbed the New York Knicks 120-100 in the second game of a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden. The St. Louis Hawks defeated the Detroit Pistons 120-105 in the opener. The other teams were idle.
Russell, who now has a career total of 10,962 rebounds to Schayes' 10,987, conceivably could oust Dolph from the top tonight as the Celtics and Nats clash at Syracuse.
St. Louis surged in the second half and outscored the Pistons 13-4 early in the third quarter.
Detroit closed the gap to five points, 87-82, at the end of the quarter but then went 4½ minutes into the last period without a field goal as St. Louis spurred to a 97-84 lead.
Bailey Howell of Detroit led all scorers with 36 points, Bob Pettit led St. Louis with 27.

Council Backing Library Aid To Suburban Areas

Carnegie Public Library board of trustees entertained the Escanaba City Council after its monthly meeting last night at the library.

The presentation of the library program was made by President Paul Vardigan of the board, and members Charles Folio, Miss Bergette Brennan, Dr. Leonard Vander, Victor Powers, Lincoln Tenny and Thaxter Shaw and Librarian Miss Mary Creteau.

The library has served Escanaba for 56 years. Starting with a few hundred books that people donated it now has a collection of more than 30,000 books and is in the same building in which it started in 1907. It has never been expanded although use of the library has increased enormously.

Out of the community's 16,000 population the library has 5,964 registered borrowers and has a higher than state or national average number of borrowers per capita, and also a higher than average book borrowing rate. Adult non-fiction borrowing was 52 per cent of the library's circulation in January.

The first day the Carnegie Library operated in Escanaba it charged out 18 books. Today the average daily borrowing is 377.

The January report showed gains in almost all categories of library use. Adult circulation was over 800 books higher than a year ago. Juvenile book borrowing was almost 500 books higher.

The library trustees discussed with the city councilmen public policy on charges for township borrowers. At present the City of Escanaba is spending more than $5 per capita for library support and it is charging township borrowers only $1 a year for a library card with privileges equal to those of city borrowers. There are about 55 registered borrowers from outside the city. They can also borrow from the U. P. Branch of the State Library in Escanaba.

The library is financed by an appropriation from the City of Escanaba, authorized by the council, and with state aid and penal fines. Council has helped the trustees with a building rehabilitation program which has removed a skylight, relighted the building, and provided other improvements in recent years.

Attending were Councilmen Jacob Bink, Wesley Hansen, Harold Vanlerberghe, George Rusch and Glen Moreau, City Manager George Harvey and City Clerk Don Guindon.

GOP Endorses Hoehn For Judge

The Delta County Republican Committee adopted a resolution last night endorsing Attorney Clair J. Hoehn of Gladstone for appointment to the judgeship of the 25th Judicial Circuit, Delta and Marquette counties.

John Walbridge, Republican County Committee chairman is out of the city on business and the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Charles J. Byrns, committee vice chairman.

The motion was made by Acott Erickson of Gladstone and supported by William Westlund of Rock.

The endorsement cited Attorney Hoehn's positions of responsibility in civic affairs, his qualifications in his profession, and his keen interest in government and the law. He is an associate in the firm of Strom, Hoehn and Shipman of Escanaba.

The appointment of a new judge will be made by Gov. Romney until the next election to fill a vacancy caused by the recent death of Judge Carroll Rushton of Marquette.

The appointment is also sought by Attorney Bernard Davidson of Negaunee.

Absent Voter Ballots Ready

Persons who will be unable to go to the polls in the Feb. 18 special school millage election may apply for and vote absent voter ballots between now and the deadline at 2 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 16.

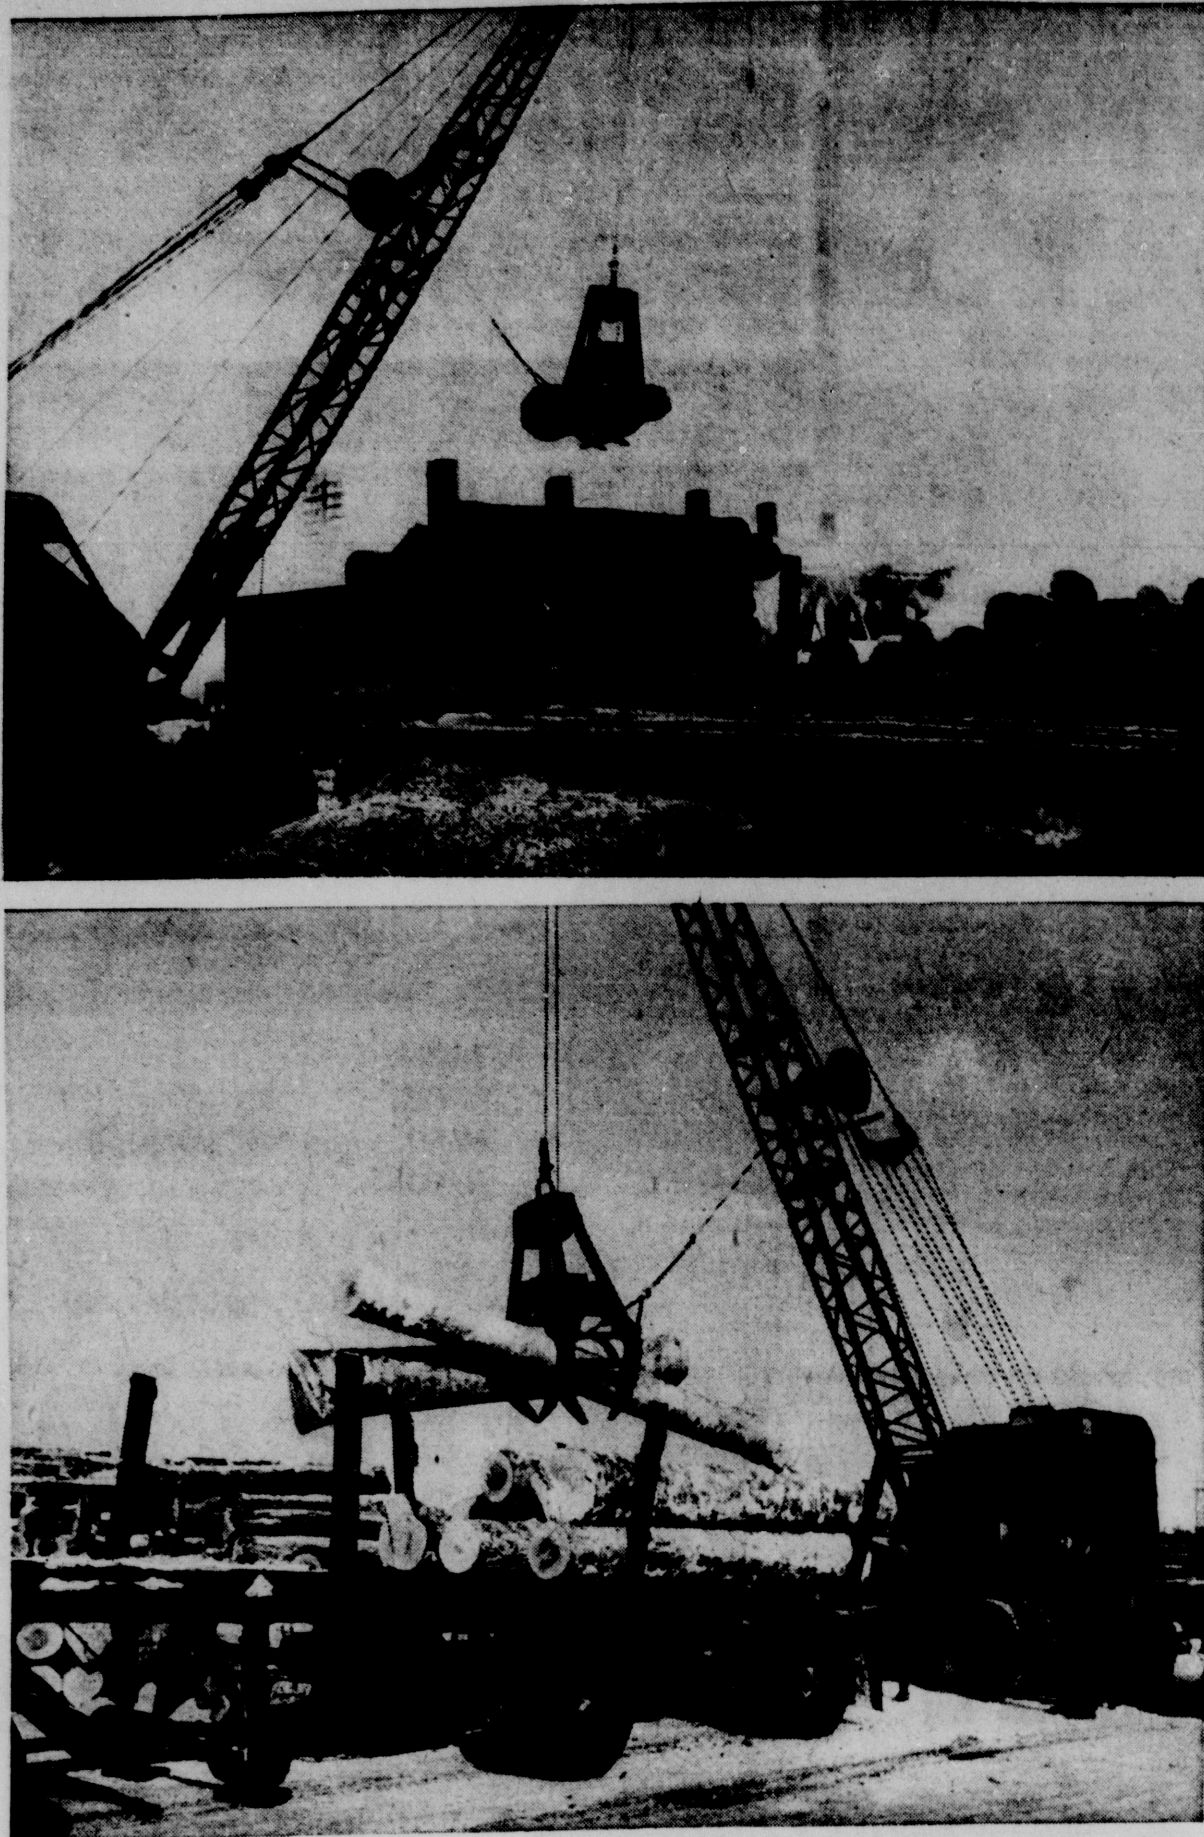

Voters residing in Ford River, Cornell and Wells Townships should apply for and vote the absent voter ballots at the Escanaba Public Schools administration office, Webster Annex, 1219 N. 19th St.

City of Escanaba voters are to apply for and vote the absent voter ballots at the office of the city clerk in the City Hall.

The school election includes the questioning of issuing school bonds and therefore only qualified voters who are the owners of property assessed for taxes in the Escanaba Area School District, or the husband or wife of such electors, may vote on Feb. 18.

Voters at the time they apply for a ballot must certify in signing the application that they are qualified voters and property owners.

Persons making a false certification are upon conviction subject to a fine of not more than $500, imprisonment for not more than 90 days in the county jail, or both in the discretion of the court.

In other picture birch and maple logs from Chatham are being loaded onto piles in the wood yard. (Daily Press Photos)

Veneer Log Traffic At Peak; Industry Changing

This is the time of the year that traffic in the Upper Peninsula's finest timber is at its peak. Logs of veneer quality are the cream of the Upper Peninsula's forest crop and they are now moving in heavy volume to the plants of Birds Eye Veneer Co. in Escanaba and in Marquette.

Birds Eye's Marquette plant has been operating since last February. It has a 12 foot slicer maximum and the furniture trade likes its veneer slices in long lengths.

The finest of the Lake States' veneer woods move to the plants by truck and by rail. About seven-eighths of the Escanaba plant's inventory of wood, says Warren Lee, of Birds Eye, is hard maple and yellow birch. But the plants also process paper (white) birch, pine and other woods.

The logs come from the breadth of the Upper Peninsula, from adjoining Canada and from as far as Minnesota to the west.

The hardwood industry of the Lake States supplies only 15 or 20 per cent of the hardwood veneers consumed in the United States. Much of the product comes from Canada, with its cheaper production costs. Japan has captured a big part of the United States plywood market and this situation is unsettling in the veneer trade, which supplies the high quality finishing woods which go on the top of the core stock.

In the effort to survive, the American veneer industry adjusts operations. The amount of hardwood veneer cut by 13 member firms of a Lakes States wood industry association is only half of that cut two years ago, showing the reorientation in the industry. Some firms which formerly produced their own veneers are buying them. The trade is saying that "the business is there, but the price isn't."

The fluid state of the veneer industry is shown by the recent Federal Trade Commission hearings in Washington on the state of the walnut timber trade. Walnut is a tree that grows in Lower Michigan and southward. It is one of America's very finest finishing woods, used for gunstocks, finest furniture, paneling, handicrafts, etc. The Washington FTC hearing was informed that 54 per cent of all walnut logs cut in the United States now are being exported for manufacture.

The situation is an alarming one for American wood industry because the value added by manufacture thus is lost and this is a much bigger contribution to the American economy than simple extractive industry, like the cut-because his wife hadn't returned from the kitchen with the coffee, went to investigate. He found her on the floor and thought she had fainted.

Phantom Sniper Caught; Admits Killing Mother

The father's call for help brought Douglas from the basement. The youth saw his mother lying on the floor. He ran out the front door.

The youth's flight from his mother's body and his answers as to his whereabouts first aroused police suspicions and they kept him under frequent questioning. They decided to ask him to take a lie detector test after they were tipped he had stolen a .22 pistol.

Sanity Hearing Planned

Companions described the slight, 5-foot-7, 135-pound youth as a "quiet kid who kept to himself."

The family's minister, the Rev. L. C. Tucker, said Douglas seemed more aloof than other members of the family.

"Douglas has been in church with his father and brothers and sister five times since his mother's funeral," the minister said. "He is a member of the senior Sunday school class—and regularly attended night prayer meetings. He was well liked among the boys and girls at church and as far as I know had no behavior problems."

The youth was turned over to the custody of the Juvenile Detention Home. The prosecutor indicated he would request a sanity hearing.

U. P. Man Walks Ice To Mackinac

ST. IGNACE—It might be entitled "Where there's a will, there's a way," but Harold Emmons, Mackinac County children's worker, found last Saturday that crossing the Straits in a raging snowstorm is no picnic.

Emmons, warmly clad, left at 2 p. m. on for Mackinac Island on a professional errand. He went on foot following the tree line by the ice trail and made the trip in about an hour.

When it was time to return, Emmons tried to get air transportation, but the plane was grounded by weather conditions. A dray was not available, so Emmons decided to make the trip by foot.

Before leaving, he obtained a towel, in which he cut eye holes, to tie around his face and protect it from the raging gale. He made the trip in about two and one-half hours, coming ashore at the Favorite dock at 7:30 p. m. Emmons stated that there were times he could see nothing but the red lights of the state police radio tower which he used as a guide.

He told friends that he had grown increasingly weary until, toward the end of his trip, he could progress only in small steps.

Briefly Told

Traffic court summons have been issued by Escanaba police to Ronnie R. Chapman, 328 N. 15th St., defective head lights; Albert S. Mowery, Marquette, failing to stop in the assured clear distance; Albert P. Tibergien, 1502 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone, driving too fast for conditions; and Elizabeth A. Hjort, 204 N. 20th St., failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

James B. Hurlmans Jr., 20, of Arnold, reported to State Police that he struck and killed a deer at 8 p. m., Tuesday on County Road 426, one mile north of Watson. Hurlmans told officers that the animal jumped from the right side of the road into the path of his car. Minor damage was done to the vehicle and Hurlmans was not injured.

Question Seniors On College Plans

Members of senior classes in high schools within a 40-mile radius of Escanaba will have an opportunity to indicate their interest in attending the Bay de Noc Community College at Escanaba next fall when they reply to a preliminary questionnaire mailed to them by Richard L. Rinehart, college president.

The questionnaire was approved by the Bay de Noc Community College board of trustees in recent meeting. Rinehart had prepared the questionnaire for the board although he will not officially take over his duties here until about April 1. Rinehart is assistant dean at Lansing Community College.

The seniors are asked whether they are interested in enrolling in the Bay de Noc College and are advised that information regarding courses and fees will be established in April. The inquiries were addressed to seniors in high schools as far distant as Stephenson, Hermansville, Vulcan and Norway—all within the 40-mile radius.

J. L. Hehrman, president of the Bay de Noc College board, said one of the purposes of the questionnaire is to "have young people of the area begin thinking about the possibility of enrolling in the college here and for us to gain some preliminary count on what the enrollment prospect is."

The board also received with expressions of appreciation an offer of members of the manual training club of Gladstone High School to make a Bay de Noc Community College sign. The offer was accepted and Trustee Robert Groos was named to work with the group on the project.

Quiz Show Scandal Lawyer Reinstated

NEW YORK (AP)—The appellate division of the State Supreme Court has reinstated as a lawyer, Mrs. Vivienne W. Nearing, 36, who was suspended from practice of law as a result of the television quiz show scandals.

The reinstatement was announced Tuesday.

Getting a line to a person who has gone through the ice is facilitated by using the spare tire of one's car. Stanley Flis, of Hammond, Ind., who offers this safety tip, says that he keeps a 100-foot line attached to his spare tire, running it through the hub hole, then through a lug bolt hole, and finally tying it securely. In case of emergency the tire can be rolled over the ice toward the broken section where it will float, providing support for the person in the water until he is pulled to safety.
